Retiring Officer Charged

OTTAWA (CP) — Brig. John Easton, 50, retiring vice-quartermaster-general of the Canadian army, was arraigned in magistrate's court here Monday on charges of conspiracy and acceptance of a bribe of more than $8,000.

He was remanded to Dec. 21 for plea. He is free on $4,000 cash bail.

FORCED TO RETIRE
The two charges, involving alleged payment of hotel bills and accepting company shares, were prepared by the RCMP. The investigation into the case began early this year and Brig. Allan was compulsorily retired Aug. 6, three years and 11 months before normal retirement age.

The charges say that Brig. Allan did "accept an advantage for benefit to a value in excess of $8,000 arising from payment of hotel bills and transfer of preferred and common shares of Levy Industries Limited."

Controversial Doctor To Remain

OMEEMEE, Ont. (CP) — Dr. Jules Sobrian, who attracted nationwide attention last spring when he condemned this village's sewers and drinking water as unsafe, says he will remain here as doctor and medical officer of health.

Dr. Sobrian, 29-year-old West Indian, who came to this community, 12 miles west of Peterborough, 18 months ago announced his decision to stay at a victory celebration for Reeve-elect Cecil Reeds.

The election saw the end of a three-year regime headed by Reeve George Stephenson, which last summer had moved to expropriate a one-acre property sold by the school board to Dr. Sobrian.

Chinese Suggestion

Soviets Endorse Test Ban Call

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The Soviet Union Monday endorsed China's call for a world conference of heads of state to discuss banning of nuclear weapons.

Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko told the General Assembly his government was prepared to take part in disarmament discussions "at any level, including the highest one."

He said the Chinese summit proposal "deserves positive consideration."

As Gromyko spoke, the Soviet delegation released an 11-point memorandum to the assembly on measures for disarmament, including a suggestion that all the "militarily powerful nations" agree to reduce their military budgets "by 10 to 15 per cent or to any other agreed extent."

RESTATEMENT
Western diplomats said the Soviet proposals were largely a restatement of previous positions.

At one point during Mr. Gromyko's speech U.S. chief delegate Adlai Stevenson had trouble trying to hide a big yawn.

External Affairs Minister Paul Martin, who will make Canada's policy statement today, said he was "disappointed" with Gromyko's speech.

He said he had hoped Gromyko would set a tone of "accommodation and settlement." Instead, he had given "the same propaganda line," in (continued on Page 2)

State Legislator Unmasked As Convict, Accused Swindler

DETROIT (UPI) — Federal agents Monday arrested State Rep. Daniel West (D-Detroit), unmasked over the weekend as an ex-convict, on charges he was involved in a federal tax swindle.

West was taken into custody by federal agents immediately following an appearance in Recorder's Court on charges of aiding and abetting the false registration of voters in the September primary.

STOLE BACKGROUND
West, identified as an ex-convict who served time for burglary, forgery and housebreaking, had gained respectability by stealing the background of a brilliant New York lawyer, now dead.

The Internal Revenue Service said it had West under investigation for some time.

MASQUERADE
The astonishing masquerade of West, 34, who has already served one term in the legislature and was re-elected to a second term last month, was disclosed over the weekend following investigations by the FBI and Detroit police. West's background came under suspicion when his defeated primary opponent found West listing two different places of birth.

The latest disclosure in the case is that West had a lucrative business sideline consisting of making out income tax returns.

Double Flip All in Trip On Freeway

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Police are looking for a nonchalant motorist who flipped his 1951 Chevrolet end-over-end twice on the Long Beach Freeway.

Witnesses told police the car landed on its wheels and the apparently unperturbed driver just drove off, minus his windshield and window glass.

Trouble Piles High

Snow piled on snow in New England states during weekend as series of winter storms wind-whipped falling snow into drifts that almost buried buildings, as in Eastport, Maine. Frigid weather, felt throughout United States except for extreme south and Pacific Coast, left thousands of homes without electric power for heating and cooking, and caused many deaths.—(AP)

Was Bennett Snubbed By Senators?

By DON MANNING

OTTAWA (CP)—Was Premier Bennett snubbed by the Senate banking and commerce committee?

"The Senate is on a holiday," the premier said sarcastically Monday. He was here for a federal-provincial conference of finance ministers.

Mr. Bennett had hoped, while in Ottawa, to appear before the senators to answer objections to his government investing in the proposed Bank of British Columbia.

PUBLIC POLICY

A motion to kill the bill for incorporation of the proposed new chartered bank now is before the committee.

The Senate itself now stands adjourned to next Monday, Dec. 14. The banking and commerce committee has the authority, however, to sit when the upper chamber itself is in recess.

Sources said Monday that the senators knew last Wednesday, when they decided to adjourn the committee hearing to Dec. 14, that Mr. Bennett would be in Ottawa Monday and today. Moreover, no effort was made to call a committee meeting this week to hear the premier.

The adjournment was intended to give Mr. Bennett and

Attorney-General Robert Bonner an opportunity to make further representations. Mr. Bennett indicated he will not return to Ottawa next Monday but that Mr. Bonner likely will come.

Chatterton Prepared To Support Closure

OTTAWA (UPI)—A Conservative backbencher said Monday he would support closure by the Liberal government to end the flag debate if the Tories and Liberals could arrive at a compromise flag design.

George Chatterton (Esquimaux-Saanich) said, "I would go so far as to support the government to bring in closure" if it would come up with a compromise design to which no major group could take exception.

UNION JACK

He suggested a design similar to one of the last flags rejected by the Commons committee—a maple leaf in the centre with a Union Jack in one corner and a fleur-de-lis in the other.

Chatterton said he was

"strongly opposed in principle" to a plebiscite, but because of the strongly partisan circumstances under which the flag debate was taking place, he would ask the nation to choose "the lesser evil."

28TH DAY

He was speaking as the flag debate dragged into its 28th day. The Commons was considering an amendment to the flag committee report recommending adoption of a single red maple leaf flag. The amendment would send the issue to the country in a national plebiscite.

Joseph Greene (L.-Renfrew South) interrupted a Conservative speaker and charged the Tories' tactics were a "prostitution of Parliament."

Career, Plan Menaced

Phantoms Haunt Hellyer

OTTAWA (UPI) — Defence Minister Hellyer's new defence policy and possibly his political future, has been placed in jeopardy by intense lobbying by aircraft manufacturers, some of the military and some sections of the government, it was learned Monday.

As a result of the campaign, the cabinet now has a yes or no proposition before it whether to award the new multi-million dollar aircraft contract to McDonnell Aircraft Corporation, manufacturers of the highly-sophisticated F-4 "Phantom" fighter.

Selection of this aircraft, sources said, would be a negation of Hellyer's thinking and his declared policy. The aircraft manufacturers, however, feel that much more money would accrue from a Phantom program due to the (continued on Page 2)

Tory Pressure: CUT SHORT FLAG TALK

OTTAWA (CP)—The parliamentary wing of the Progressive Conservative party is under strong pressure from the party's national executive to wind up the flag debate in the Commons, reliable sources said Monday.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker was reported to have been informed by president Dalton Camp that the party executive is 2-to-1 in favor of MPs discontinuing their fight against the single maple leaf flag design proposed by a Commons committee.

Debate on the recommendation went into its sixth day Monday. The previous flag debate on the government-recommended design of three red maple leaves lasted 22 days before the committee was handed the task of finding a design.

END DEBATE

One source said that when the party executive met during the weekend reports from the provinces heavily favored ending the flag debate, now being carried on almost exclusively by Conservative speakers.

However, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker made a plea for support for continuing the debate.

One source said that at a subsequent session Mr. Camp was instructed to advise Mr. Diefenbaker the executive was still overwhelmingly in favor of ending it.

MPs AGREE

A number of the party's MPs have gone on record publicly along the same line, including all but one of the Quebec MPs. The latest move in this direction came Monday in a statement by Gerald Baldwin, MP for Peace River.

Mr. Baldwin called for a decision on the flag but urged that after the decision the government delay implementing it until the Canadian constitution has been brought fully within the control of the Canadian Parliament and legislatures.

SPEAKERS DWINDLING

Meanwhile, Conservative sources indicated the party's list of flag speakers is dwindling rapidly.

House Leader Gordon Churchill (Winnipeg South Centre) said the debate would continue Monday but after that "the situation is fluid."

The Reids

Runs Third

Charlotte Loses In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Controller Don Reid, a furniture dealer, shattered Charlotte Whitton's unbeaten mayoralty record Monday in one of the most stunning upsets in the history of Ottawa civic elections.

Miss Whitton ran a surprising third in the five-way race.

Miss Whitton went to Mr. Reid's campaign headquarters to concede and congratulate the winner.

"Dun, I'm handing you over a city that's in A-1 shape," she said.

In Toronto, Mayor Philip Givens was returned to office Monday night, thrusting back the comeback attempt of once-unbeatable Allan Lamport.

Jagan Starts Slowly

GEORGETOWN (AP)—Marxist Premier Cheddi Jagan's Progressive People's party fell behind Monday night as early returns came in from Monday's British Guiana National Assembly elections but was expected to make a strong showing in districts coming in later.

Final results are expected sometime today.

British army helicopters circled over the more sensitive trouble areas in Georgetown. About 1,300 British soldiers and 2,400 police and volunteers took stations along the 2,000-square-mile coastal area of the British colony to maintain order.

Giant Bingo Offers Turkeys for Toys

The money raised by the Kinmen sponsors air cadets and the Kinmen Gorge Park. The toys brought to the arena are

Painful Meeting

Dedicated SPCA Inspector Oscar Vennberg lay in muddy ditch for 1½ hours Monday night before rescuing cat which had its paw caught in muskrat trap. Here he is shown releasing angry animal, whose paw was apparently not permanently injured. Rescue took so long because cat dragged trap about 30 feet inside 12-inch drain tile beside Jennifer Road and trap had to be snugged with long, hooked wire.—(W.A. Boucher)

Political Vacuum Seeking Leader

OTTAWA (CP)—Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson said Monday many Conservative-minded Canadians are seeking his leadership in a political vacuum being created by the old Conservative and Liberal parties.

But he said in an interview he knows nothing to support a report in the Montreal Gazette that Social Credit leaders approached Conservative party executives in Ottawa on the weekend to look into a right-wing merger which would result in a new party dedicated to private enterprise and the maintenance of Confederation.

Conservative sources also denied knowledge of such meetings. Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker dismissed it as unworthy of comment, and other sources indicated some Social Credit MPs from Quebec are seeking Conservative support.

One Conservative source said Mr. Thompson conferred with some persons attending Saturday's Conservative party executive meeting here, but Mr. Thompson said he had no dealings with executive members of the party.

NO MEETING HELD
"I can't understand the basis for such a report," Mr. Thompson said. "I have not held any high-level meeting with any executive of the Conservative party and I am not pushing anything."

But he did say that the road ahead for Conservative-minded Canadians has been the subject of widespread discussion among politicians and the public.

"In the present situation, the public is doubtful about and fairly well fed up with the Liberals, and there is growing discontent inside the Tory party, and so we have a vacuum building up here.

"There are a lot of people, too, who don't want a socialist party so they are looking for somewhere else to go."

Mr. Thompson said that in many of his trips on speaking engagements outside Ottawa he is approached by businessmen who he believes are small-conservatives.

CLOSE LIAISON
Mr. Thompson also said the reported overtures for a merger may have been prompted by Alberta Premier Manning's recent statement that Canada needs a more clearly identified party of free enterprise. Premier Manning and Mr. Thompson are known to maintain a close liaison.

Premier Bennett of British Columbia also has emphasized the same assessment of national politics. Mr. Bennett's relations with Mr. Thompson, however, have been more strained.

Stormy Meeting at Berkeley

'Free Speech' Rebel Chief Dragged Away by Police

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—President Clark Kerr announced a new University of California free speech policy Monday at a tumultuous student-faculty meeting at which the chief rebel spokesman was dragged off the stage by campus policemen.

Kerr unveiled the plan at a convocation called in an attempt to end 10 weeks of demonstrations by a minority of students who seek unlimited freedom to promote off-campus causes at the university.

The compromise plan, drafted by the chairman of the university's academic departments, plus 12 deans, proposed that the university accept the court's judgment in the cases of students arrested for last week's sit-in mass demonstrations.

It also suggested that the university not press charges against any students for actions prior to last week's demonstrations.

"But the university will invoke disciplinary action for unlawful actions heretofore," the department heads said.

Even before Kerr began addressing 13,000 students, rebel leader Mario Savio blasted the plan as "scandalous."

FOLLOWERS SHOUT

And when the meeting was formally closed, the 21-year-old, bushy-haired philosophy student mounted the stage and headed for the microphone.

Before he could speak, two campus policemen dragged him by his coat collar into a stairway while followers shouted for his release.

He was held for 15 minutes before his attorney, Alexander Hoffman, arrived and insisted that he be arrested or released. He was then freed.

PICKETING CANCELLED

In other developments: A leader of the free speech movement said picketing of campus entrances and classroom buildings would be suspended today to "wait and see."

Police reported that the files in the office of U.C. president emeritus Robert Sproul had been pulled out and papers "strewn about" the floor.

"My office always looks that way," Sproul told police.

Cheer Reduced By Costly Blaze

LONDON (UPI)—Parts of Britain may be short of liquor over the Christmas holiday because of a multi-million-dollar fire which razed an East London railroad freight station during the weekend.

Gallons of whisky, gin and other spirits stored in the bonded warehouses at Bishopgate Station exploded and became fuel for the spectacular fire—the worst since the blitz—which killed two customs officials.

Washington Talks

Nuclear Guidelines Wilson, LBJ Goal

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Johnson and Prime Minister Harold Wilson began Monday a joint search for guidelines the United States and Britain may follow in tackling the controversial problem of NATO's nuclear future.

The two leaders met twice alone, for 30 minutes and later for about one hour. During the second session the controversial question of the U.S.-proposed international nuclear missile fleet was "opened up" and Wilson began outlining his thinking on this subject.

Briefing officers said Johnson and his guest approached the question on a general level. Spokesmen for both leaders said no "blueprint" for a NATO nuclear force will emerge from the conference and the nuclear fleet is only one aspect of the real issue: The condition of the Western alliance.

More talks will follow on various levels, informants said, but they were reluctant to say whether Wilson will return to Washington in January, as expected.

Wilson will continue to outline his ideas on NATO's reorganization today, the informants said. The two leaders and their aides also intend to discuss the situation in Southeast Asia, and Johnson is expected to request that Britain assist the United States in South Viet Nam.

Officials from both sides reported an "encouraging start" for the talks.

Cable-Splicing

Repairs Nearly Done For San Juan Power

SEATTLE (AP)—The first of two splices on a broken 25,000-volt underwater power cable to the San Juan Islands was to be finished Monday and "with luck" repairs will be completed by mid-week.

The progress report was given by William Frans, area manager for the Bonneville Power Administration, which provides power to the islands from the mainland.

Mr. Frans said a splice on the east end of the severed cable was nearly done by mid-day Monday and if the weather holds the west-end splice will be finished in about two more days.

The cable snapped Nov. 19 leaving nearly 6,000 residents of the islands without power. They have been supplied by auxiliary diesel generators.

Okanagan

Fluoride Rebels Win Point

VANCOUVER (CP)—Health Minister Martin said Monday public health unit employees will not be disciplined for trying to influence votes in favor of water fluoridation.

His remark came after the South Okanagan board said it would ignore his directive against participation in fluoridation campaigns.

"Public health personnel are too valuable to get them angry," the minister said in an interview.

Water fluoridation plebiscites will be held in 12 B.C. communities Dec. 12.

STAND FLOORED
Two more Okanagan medical associations have entered the fluoridation controversy.

Both Vernon, and Kelowna Medical Associations have issued statements deploring the interference of government in the practice of medicine.

Dr. L. T. Jordan, president of the Vernon association, said his association's statement was issued in connection with a warning given the health board by Mr. Martin.

Population Still Ahead Of Controls

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The population of the world, increasing by 65,000,000 annually, is expected to reach 4,300,000,000 by 1980, according to the Population Reference Bureau, Inc.

"Most important is that about a third of the world's people have gained, or are gaining, control of the birth rate," the bureau said in a report Monday. "And the high birthrate areas are the developing countries with low levels of living."

At present the world's population is 3,283,000,000. China is the most populous nation in the world at 690,000,000, India is second with 468,500,000, followed by Russia at 229,000,000, the United States at 192,000,000 and Indonesia with 102,000,000.

Jack Murray, teacher, got a Scotia Plan Loan -$1800-in 35 minutes

Jack Murray had what he thought was the world's biggest pile of unpaid medical bills. Mr. Murray needed financial help in a hurry.

Jack talked his problem over with his brother and he suggested that Jack investigate the advantages of a Scotia Plan Loan. Jack dropped in on his noon hour to a Scotiabank close to his school.

He talked his money problems over with one of the helpful Scotiabank people. After a few simple questions about his job, income, and how much money he needed Jack Murray started to see his medical bill problem melting away.

35 minutes later Jack Murray had all the money he so desperately needed. Of course, this actual customer was not

A Sharp Jolt

THE INCREASE of nearly 28 per cent on average in next year's automobile insurance costs in Greater Victoria calls attention to the most impressive fashion to the city's growing traffic problems.

To be sure, Victoria still has the lowest rates in the province and the second lowest among large Canadian cities (having lost the lead to Brandon) and this is some consolation. But the rise in premiums is much greater than the average across the country, which is 15.3 per cent, or in British Columbia as a whole, 20 per cent.

The rate boost is a reflection of a dismaying climb in the number of accidents and injuries and the property damage toll in the first nine months of this year, with rush-hour mishaps mainly responsible. It would appear that neither the community's driving habits nor its road system is keeping up with the increase in population and cars.

The study of arterial needs in the region which has been in progress during the year undoubtedly will provide some answers to the latter problem when a report is presented in January by the Capital Region Planning Board. Even so it will not be easy to keep abreast of mounting traffic pressures on the main thoroughfares, existing and new, as urban Greater Victoria continues to expand outward and upward.

But to the extent that bad driving is to blame, the councils of the area and particularly of Victoria city must seriously consider whether the police forces are adequately manned to cope satisfactorily with the situation. For their numbers, the police are probably doing as good a job as is done anywhere, perhaps better. But they are often noticeable by their scarcity in relation to the masses of cars moving at peak hours.

It would cost money to increase the size of the forces to provide more enforcement and direction. But it is costing money not to have efficient traffic control—and quite a jolt in the coming year.

The councils may well ponder where true economy lies.

Political Standards

MR. PEARSON has told an Ontario audience that the highest standards must prevail among politicians and that those who do not measure up to the credo of integrity have no rightful place in this profession.

A man of personal repute himself, the prime minister may have been impelled to this emphasis on probity by the inquiry to be held into the recent charges of attempted bribery and coercion affecting officials connected with his own government, but of the verities of his views there can be no doubt.

The public expects that those who occupy public office, and his remarks touch all levels of governance, shall be like Caesar's wife, not only beyond suspicion but always appearing to be so. The public itself has its own obligation, which is not to condone behavior which departs from the strictest test of such ethic.

Too loosely the public sometimes adopts the cynical attitude that politicians "are on the make," and in so doing does rank injustice to the large body of this profession, individuals whose conduct cannot be impugned and whose personal approach to their duties is beyond cavil in this respect. Nor is the downgrading of the political image Mr. Pearson mentions due to lack of ethical purity but largely to the inept and extreme partisan habits that impair the parliamentary scene.

But just as one bad apple in a barrel of apples may affect the whole, so may the failure of a single politician to live up to the challenge of personal integrity color and diminish public regard for the profession.

Mr. Pearson points out that men holding public office are perhaps more subject to pressures than their fellows in other occupations and there is temptation to yield to these pressures. This of course calls for all the more adherence to the standards the prime minister stresses, and Canada is fortunate perhaps that lapses from the ethical code be reaffirmed are infrequent. But such instances simply underline the importance of standards which as a matter of course should be the hallmark of public office in this country.

Complete trust in the personal character of its elected officials is the basis of democracy, and the prime minister does well to offer a reminder which is applicable to all who seek office of any kind in the public name.

Point of View

PSYCHIATRISTS, along with politicians and journalists, come in for their fair—sometimes unfair—share of public criticism. But like journalists and unlike politicians they seem to have built up a fairly thick skin over the years.

So far has this hardened epidermis been stretched these days that at least one journal published for psychiatrists regularly reports in detail all the latest complaints lodged against their profession.

As an example of this open-minded attitude the most recent edition of the journal records this item:

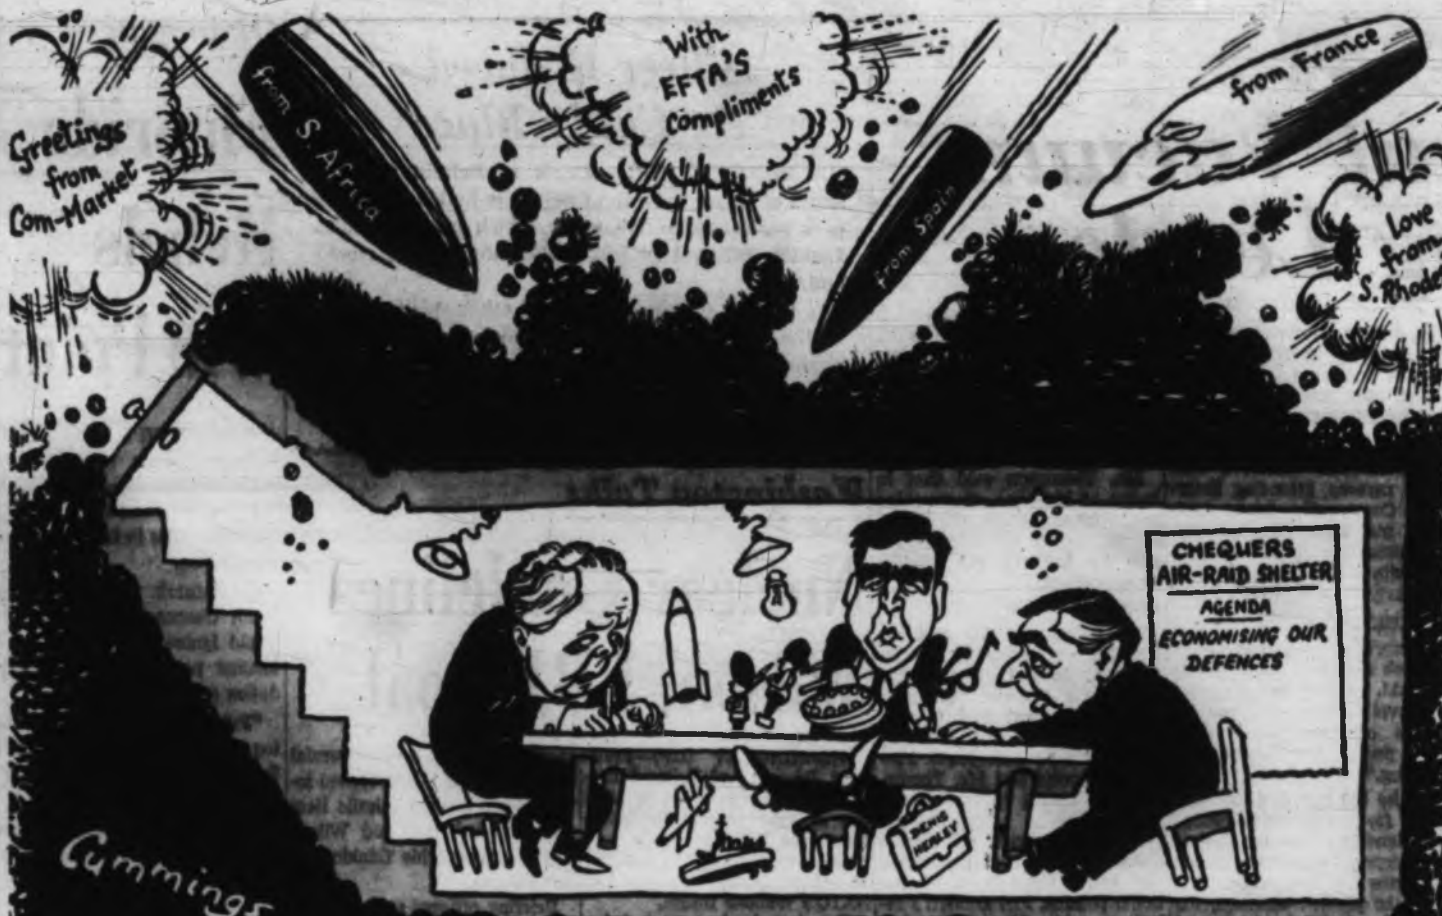

"At the International Congress of Social Psychiatrists, held in London this August, a New York psychiatrist advanced the theory that the way a baby burps may be a good indication of its future personality. Babies who burp loudly and infrequently, the theory goes, seem destined to be leaders; soft burpers probably won't amount to much at all.

"The London Daily Telegraph took a very dyspeptic view of the burp theory. An editorial, 'British Are Best' lists it among several 'foolish things' said at the congress. Apparently Englishmen said some of these things too, but 'most'... were said by visitors from the United States, where the art of mental healing is in a backward state."

"So backward, the editorial concludes, that 'it is quite wrong that British doctors... should share the title of psychiatrist with the kind of dogmatic, theoretical, and largely unsuccessful psychiatrist who dominates the United States and its gigantic institutions.'"

The psychiatric journal, which is published in the United States, showed remarkable forbearance in not springing to the defence of its home-grown practitioners. Other, that is, than placing over the item the heading: "Fists Across the Sea."

Obviously the journal's editorial staff believes that a soft burp turneth away wrath.

"But, Harold, now that we're hated by our friends as well as our enemies we ought to have MORE arms..."

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes and ships, and setting out...

By TOM TAYLOR

I WAS looking in a book of quotations to oblige a friend when, naturally, I was diverted by something I wasn't looking for.

This is always what happens when one engages in deep research. One is lured into opposite matter because, I suppose, the mental gremlin who likes to tease and lead one astray, gets busy to work.

I am well aware of this little fellow; he is responsible for much that appears in this column, as, for instance, this month.

The page opened where it shouldn't have, you see, and my eye, doubtless seeking avoidance of the task at hand, lit on the following lamentation from "Don Quixote," to wit:

"My memory is so bad, that many times I forget my own name."

This is by way of being what we call a cliché, although if clichés were banned by law under threat of dire consequence the human race would be struck dumb.

Certainly there scarce breathes a man who hasn't, like Cervantes, who'd be writing out of his own experience, said likewise. I know I frequently have cause to bemoan the holes in my own head through which names disappear.

Even my own, although this is recoverable: it's when introducing others I am sunk into the hole itself.

All of which foregoing palaver is simply to recall to myself, memory working with due propriety this time, that the other day I received the cards which, duly filed out and with the necessary financial ancillary attached thereto, will entitle me to get a car licence for 1965.

Which you might conclude has nothing to do with memory, excepting the automatic one the motor licence branch employs. But indeed it has. I have only now begun to remember my 1964 car number without recourse to the licence plate itself, or, my safety gurdon, a note in a little black book I carry.

A perilous state of affairs, I'd admit, and no complaint to myself or the little gremlin either, who sometimes, I must also admit, turns up trumps. But it heartens me to know that long ago Cervantes suffered from the same affliction, which happily is most common and excuses the cliché above said. The disease is not a modern one.

All the same I had made up my mind, not alas, for the first time at this season of the year when receiving the licence card mentioned above, that I would be first in line, or thereabouts more or less, to acquire my new licence number.

And thereupon instantly I realized my digits so firmly into my waking consciousness that they'd spring instantly to recall when required, gremlin or no gremlin.

I won't, of course. Sanity tells me better. This is one of those little white New Year vows that vanish with extraordinary ease into the limbo of things, like names, which one shouldn't forget.

I'll be lucky if I remember to visit Menzies Street before the deadline. Although there's something new that should keep my memory sharply in focus: that big insurance increase scheduled for next year.

I simply won't be able to forget this even if I'd like to.

Not for a while anyway, the holes in one's head closing up in matters of this nature. I fancy I'll have lots of company here, however, which I suppose is some consolation.

Both Gains and Losses

Peking's Activities in Africa

By STANLEY KARNOW from Hong Kong

REVOLUTIONARY prospects are excellent throughout the African Continent," declared the Chinese premier, Chou En-lai, in Somalia last February. Since then, Peking's Communist regime has intensified its penetration into Africa with significant success.

Operations are carried out in a variety of ways and at different levels. There are trade pacts and aid programs for newly-independent governments, peculiarly paralleled by subversive tactics aimed at overthrowing those governments. Assorted Chinese propaganda efforts include tours by Chinese acrobats and invitations to Peking for African dignitaries. Powerful Chinese radio transmitters beam also hours of broadcasts daily to African listeners in English, French, Portuguese, Hausa and Swahili.

In Burundi, the biggest literary bargain is Peking Information, a handsome French-language magazine selling for less than eight U.S. cents. Subscription agents are rewarded with color calendars, Chinese scrolls and attractive desk diaries.

Peking's foreign ministry recently added a new department to handle relations with Central and South Africa. A separate section deals with North Africa. This Chinese drive has several motives. Diplomatically it is designed to win recognition from young African states and thereby tip the scales in Peking's favor in the United Nations vote on China's seat. Nearly one-third of China's diplomatic missions are located in Africa; there were none nine years ago.

At the same time, Africa is an ideal market for cheap Chinese manufactured goods and a source of raw materials for China's industries. With typical pragmatism, the Chinese can overlook politics where business is concerned. They criticize South Africa's "fascist" government, yet their trade with South Africa has increased more than fourfold over the past year.

But in the long run China hopes to export its brand of revolution to Africa at the expense of both the Western powers and the Soviet Union. A secret Chinese army document distributed in April, 1961, to senior officers described Africa as "the centre of the anti-colonial struggle—the centre of the struggle between East and West."

The document acknowledged, however, that this movement was not ripe for real revolution. "It is time, not for a social revolution, but for a national revolution, time for a broad united front," it stated.

As early as 1955, the Chinese took tentative steps into Africa by signing a cultural agreement with Egypt. They followed this up a few years later by recognizing the Algerian rebel government and training selected Algerian rebel officers. From February to June, 1961, a Chinese delegation toured eight West African countries, laying the groundwork for future activities.

Meanwhile, the Chinese fortified their diplomatic corps at key embassies in the United Arab Republic, Ghana and Tanganyika. In the opinion of experts the most experienced Chinese ambassador anywhere in the world is Chen Chis-ling, representative in Cairo. Chen, a former personal secretary of Chou En-lai, has made wide contacts with foreigners. During the Second World War he was interpreter for the U.S. military observers' mission, then stationed in the Chinese Communist stronghold in Yenan. In 1945 he attended the UN organizational conference in San Francisco, later travelling extensively in Europe as delegate to various youth conferences. He was adviser at the Bandung conference in 1955, and when the Chinese opened their first African embassy in Cairo in 1956, Chen was named to the post. He has been there ever since.

Specialists submit that Ambassador Chen may serve as a sort of Chinese proconsul for Africa. Most Chinese groups visiting Africa go through Cairo, presumably to make contact with Chen. He has also made many trips throughout Africa to establish diplomatic relations with other states.

As in many of their ministries, trade departments, banks and other missions, lower-ranking Chinese officials are often key figures. Several are security or military men, and many pose as correspondents of the New China News Agency. One of the most intriguing of these operatives is Colonel Kan Mal, commander of the Chinese Embassy in Brazzaville, who previously spent 10 years as an assistant military attaché in Delhi and military attaché in Nepal. His presence on the border of the Congo (Leopoldville) seems to fit in with the current Chinese campaign to subvert that state. Under Colonel Kan's direction, Chinese run a guerrilla training camp for Congolese "freedom fighters" associated with the rebel National Liberation Council. Among these guerrillas is Pierre Mulele, who returned to the Congo last year after 18 months of instruction in China.

The central Chinese mission for East Africa is based at Dar es-Salaam, in Tanganyika. Its chief is Ho Ying, an arable diplomat in the mid-fifties who was once a political commissar in the Russian Red Army and later served as Chinese ambassador to Mongolia. Ambassador Ho is said to have given financial support to politicians in Zanzibar, Basutoland and Kenya, and has sent 18 Kenyans to China for guerrilla training at Wuhan Military Academy.

By The Canadian Press

American forces under Gen. Richard Montgomery and Benedict Arnold began the siege of Quebec City 189 years ago today—in 1775—during the American War of Independence. The siege was unsuccessful and Montgomery was killed during an attack on the city on New Year's Eve. At the same time Arnold was wounded, but took over command and conducted the retreat of the American forces the following spring.

1925—Adolf Hitler's book, Mein Kampf, was published.

1941—The U.S. declared war on Japan.

First World War: Fifty years ago today—in 1914—Vice-Admiral Sir F. Doveton Sturdee destroyed Admiral Count von Spee's squadron in the Battle of the Falklands, sinking the warships Scharnhorst, Goeben, Leipzig and  Nürnberg. Serbian troops recaptured the towns of Valjevo and Ushitz.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago today—in 1939—British ships sank three Nazi U-boats in a 24-hour period; Italy reaffirmed its neutrality but said it stood firm by its military alliance with Germany; Finnish troops claimed to have halted Russian advances.

Ottawa Offbeat

Higher Status

By RICHARD JACKSON
Columnist Ottawa Bureau

COULD it be that Canada is getting itself into the big league internationally? Despite the public attitudes of the Honorable Paul Martin?

Could be!

And, strange to say, if we are, a lot of the credit will have to go to Oom Paul.

He is the man that Opposition members find so frustrating during question periods in the House because he can reply to a 10-word question with 200 words without ever answering the question.

Frustrating this may be to Tory members of Parliament, but maybe it works a different way around the international diplomatic circles he travels.

At any rate, he must be at least half responsible (the other half going to Prime Minister Pearson) for the recent gathering here of delegates from 23 smaller nations within the UN.

For a week, in relative privacy, they discussed the possibility of establishing some sort of co-ordinated international military force to act for the UN in the event of brush-fire wars anywhere in the world.

Considering the fact that none of the nations represented (particularly Canada) has either the desire or means of launching war on anybody, the response of Russia was strange. Maybe even amusing.

Russia called Canada "a potential aggressor" for being host at the meetings and voiced suspicion of all other nations represented.

Perhaps there is fair enough reason for Russia to be suspicious—particularly under new rulers who may want some brush-fire wars—but to call this country a "potential aggressor" is another matter.

In the past, such a title has only been handed to the United States and Britain—when Russia was in the mood to hand out titles.

Could it be, then, as we suggested, that Canada has really been recognized in the big league?

Such prestige! Such a grin in recognition!

And we owe it to Oom Paul. And Lester. Or do we?

What was actually being put forward was an extension of activities which Canada has been taking part in since the time of the Suez crisis—and those activities stemmed entirely from the efforts at the UN of Mr. Pearson, who was then Canada's external affairs minister.

His efforts then are responsible for the fact we still have forces patrolling the Gaza Strip between Israel and Egyptian armies.

The extension of those efforts accounts for the presence of other Canadian forces in the Kashmir, Indo-China, the Congo and Cyprus.

In all these places Canada has taken the part of peace-maker (albeit by means of rifles, machine-guns and armored cars in some cases).

The intent has been to keep hostile groups from shooting up each other and, by and large, it has worked.

If it has worked in those places because, mainly, of Canadian influence, how much better might it work in other places because of the influence of 23 nations—or more?

The idea baited about at the Ottawa meetings was to provide airborne and sea-borne troops, plus limited naval and air power, available on almost a moment's notice at the call of the UN, to intervene in brush-fire wars anywhere in the world.

The talks must have reached some point of agreement and/or success (who knows how Oom Paul answers in private meetings?), because Canada has already started along the path towards such a force.

Aircraft are on order which are capable of delivering troops and equipment to any point in the world and the government has established a 3,000-man force of specially-trained troops dedicated to UN use.

They are to be based at Camp Pelee, 120 miles northwest of here, and an airfield will be built at the camp to handle the special aircraft.

Perhaps others of the 23 nations, who met here are doing the same thing at present and that means the meeting was a success.

Perhaps also, then, we shall have to give Oom Paul some credit, for such loans may well save the world from major war someday.

But we must not forget that Canada has also won the status of "potential aggressor" in official Russian eyes—a promotion, indeed. Thanks, Oom Paul.

If we are in such a class, it provides better reason to say some sort of new flag really is needed.

Time—and Secretary Didn't Wait for Raise

MIDLAND, Texas—In October Independent oilman H. C. Wood hired attractive, red-haired German-born secretary, 32, as his secretary, offering her $350 a month and a raise after a couple of months "if things worked out."

But, says Sheriff's Deputy Gene Howell, German was in a hurry to get a new job. She started writing cheques and signing Wood's name after just two days at work.

She bought a car for $2,498; a fur stole for $1,000; a watch for $1,700. She paid off an old loan for $1,385.

Last week an accountant came to make a routine check—and German left town.

She was arrested in Fort Worth and charged with forgery. Recovered were the car, fur stole and 18 $100 bills.

"And we'd all tried to befriend her," said Mr. Wood.

LONDON—John Henry Box, a 47-year-old civil servant, has changed his surname to Haynes for the sake of his son.

Haynes said: "Society is becoming more and more preoccupied with sex and my boy John is eight—a very impressionable age. I don't want the word sex to remind him always of childhood teasing."

HONG KONG—Archbishop H. H. Clark, Anglican Primate of All Canada, has arrived in Hong Kong in the course of a world tour.

If Act Changed

New Bank Openings Likely

By HARRY YOUNG Colonist Business Editor

Important new openings will be provided for the Canadian chartered banks if the recommendations of the Royal Commission on Banking and Finance are adopted in the new Bank Act.

G. Arnold Hart, president of the Bank of Montreal, told shareholders that these would stem from proposals to remove the present six per cent limit on interest rates and to allow banks to participate in the mortgage market.

The availability of mortgage security would enable the banks to broaden their lending activities to meet the requirements of borrowers who must now look elsewhere for their financing and who in many cases "are paying rates, outside the banking system, significantly higher than they would conceivably pay within it."

Mr. Hart added that such lending would not affect the availability of short-term loans to industry, agriculture and individuals by the banks.

Following the meeting Mr. Hart was elected chairman of the board and chairman of the executive committee of the Bank of Montreal, while retaining his position as president and chief executive officer.

As chairman Mr. Hart succeeds Arthur C. Jensen, who is retiring after 50 years with the bank.

which sugar prices fluctuated violently this had created "distortion" in the profit figure.

As a result the company accounts show that while 1963 provision for income tax was $5,307,000, this year it had dropped to $2,267,000. The company said the lower income tax provision indicated the extent of the abnormal income.

FOUNDRY ACQUIRED

The recently formed Victoria firm of Warner Investments Ltd. reports it has completed arrangements for the take-over of Bird Foundry Ltd. of Vancouver as from Jan. 1, 1965.

Bird manufactures aluminum, brass and bronze castings for Western Canada customers. The present managing director will retain his managing director and will work in association with John Stark, managing director of A. I. Steel Foundry Ltd. an associated company with Warner Investments.

Under the new arrangement A. I. Steel will handle all the iron and steel castings for the two firms, while Bird will specialize in the non-ferrous castings.

It is proposed to expand the facilities at the Bird factory in Vancouver.

HARDING'S GOOD YEAR

Harding Carpets Ltd. in the year ended Oct. 31, increased its net profit by 36 per cent over the previous year. The net income was $1,285,375 ($1.65 a share) against $953,871 ($1.12 a share) in the previous fiscal year.

Premiere Playhouse!

Vancouver Group to Open Plays in Victoria

Premieres of all Vancouver Playhouse Theatre Company productions will be held in the McPherson Playhouse starting with the 1965-66 season.

Robert Ellison, McPherson Playhouse manager, said that the "marriage" will not include the Bastion Theatre Studio at present.

This season the Vancouver Playhouse professional company will bring the musical Stop the World I Want to Get Off to Victoria April 1, 2 and 3 after it has opened in Vancouver. Next season the Vancouver group's plays will open in Victoria, Mr. Ellison said, but that doesn't mean that Victoria will play Boston to Vancouver's Broadway.

Lead from B.C.

Automation Inquiry Urged Now

B.C. should press for the establishment of a national inquiry into the effects of automation and remedial measures, the provincial cabinet was told Monday.

A delegation from the legislative committee of the International Railway Brotherhoods called for an immediate start by this government on "a program of economic and social first aid for displaced workers."

MORE SCHOOLS

There should be an acceleration of technical school construction to cope with the disruption of occupational groups which will be greatest during the transitional period, the brief said.

Industry, which can expect higher profits through automation, should pay more towards the cost of re-training workers.

"The problem involves looking ahead five, 10 or even 20 years to see what are likely to be the occupational and social needs of the future," said chairman J. A. Remle of New Westminster.

OTHER REQUESTS

Railway unions in B.C. represent some 5,000 workers on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway and B.C. Hydro.

The brief also asked for medical care without deterrent fees, ambulance service as part of B.C.H.S. government-supervised lotteries, and among other measures proposed a competency exam in handling of firearms for all hunters.

The brotherhoods went on record as opposing the opening of provincial parks to mining and logging operations.

Flying Object Circles City

VANCOUVER (CP) — The local Flying Saucer Club has appealed to the public for more information about an unidentified object reported to have hovered over the city late Saturday.

More than 100 persons reported seeing the flying object, described as an orange or gold sphere, which circled the city, hovered overhead and then sped off.

Officials at the Vancouver International Airport control tower said they did not see it and did not trace it on radar.

Island Crop Valued At About $90,000

The holly harvest is in full swing on Vancouver Island.

Most growers have cut and packed about half their crops as they work to meet a 50,000-pound production limit before Christmas.

David R. Philbrick, manager of the Vancouver Island Holly Growers' Association, said the quality of this year's crop is excellent, although it is not as plentiful as in other years.

90 CENTS A POUND
The crop is valued at about $90,000, and will sell in eastern Canada for about 90 cents a pound. It will be shipped to all parts of Canada, Bermuda, Trinidad and the West Indies.

Some may even be sent to England. Last year on the London market the price of holly rose to about $200 a ton.

SECOND HALF
At the Queen Alexandra Solarium holly farm, cutters are working on the second half of an estimated 8,000-pound crop. Four cutters have been working every day for about a week and a half.

Holly is cut in lengths of not more than one foot. The cutters have to carefully select each branch to ensure there is a good proportion of leaves and berries.

If there are too many berries or too many leaves, the branches are rejected by the packers. Some trees are so heavily loaded with berries they are left untouched.

BRANCHES DIPPED
Before the holly is packed in crates, each branch is dipped in a solution to preserve the berries.

Geoffrey Vantreight, a daffodil grower who also is sales representative for the holly growers, said there would be little difficulty in selling his holly crop. He recently returned from a selling trip to eastern Canada for daffodils and holly.

About 90 per cent of Canadian holly is grown in the Saanich, Cowichan Valley and Nanaimo areas.

GROWN IN U.S.
There also are large growing areas in the United States. The Vancouver Island industry received a set-back in 1958 when a large quantity of holly from the United States was dumped on the Canadian market.

Fred Polson cuts holly at Solarium set. Growers here were left with large stocks of holly which had to be burned.

The custom of hanging holly in the house at Christmas dates to Roman times. There was also a Teutonic practice of hanging evergreen in the home at Christmas to make a refuge for the spirits of the forest from the inclemency of winter.

Damage Done Money Left

A small coffee room in Butler Bros. building supplies, 405 Bay Street, was broken into Monday night but the culprit appeared more interested in doing damage than in stealing anything.

Police found a hasp and lock pried off with a metal bar. Inside the room sugar and coffee had been deliberately spilled on the floor. A small quantity of money was found in a cup on a shelf.

The sliding door to one of the warehouses was also found standing open. Police were not able to tell if anything was taken.

Public Fund May Help 21 Accused

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (UPI)—A U.S. attorney said Monday that a public fund may be set up to defend 21 men, including a sheriff and his deputy, against federal charges in connection with the killing of three civil rights workers.

At present, 19 of the men face only federal charges of violating the civil rights of the workers, shot to death and buried under a dam last summer. But Mississippi authorities were reported to have decided to press murder charges against several of the men.

'Southeastern Gateway' May Move Communities

A scheme to beautify the "southeastern gateway" to B.C. involving both federal and provincial governments was disclosed here Monday.

Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell confirmed that the government had proposed buying out of two entire communities — Natal and Michel.

The population of close to 1,200 in the two centres would be moved about three miles west to a new residential area known as Sparwood.

NEW DISTRICT

The entire area, for which boundaries have not yet been fixed, would then be incorporated as a new district municipality.

There would be a strong industrial tax base for the new district from coal mining operations in the area.

Mr. Campbell said he had twice met with councils of Natal and Michel and found them most enthusiastic in their support for the plan.

SLUM LAWS

The scheme is to be carried out in conjunction with the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

Under federal slum clearance legislation Ottawa would pay 75 per cent of the cost of relocating the population.

The new village of Sparwood was incorporated only a few weeks ago.

No estimates are immediately available on the cost of relocating the two depressed communities.

This would be done on an appraisal basis. Technical surveys by officials of the municipal affairs department are now under way.

NO DETAILS

It is also proposed to re-locate a section of the southern trans-provincial highway, which now runs through Natal and Michel, so that it will directly serve Sparwood.

Mr. Campbell said he wasn't yet ready to spell out details of the move. Special consideration was being given to the needs of pensioners who had lived in the communities for all their working lives.

Music on Bus Has Savage Beat

A Conservative motion to exclude newsprint from the surcharge was defeated by 179 votes to 139.

Victoria hunter Philip Hitchinson does not panic easily.

If he did, he would not have been so easily found after he became lost in heavy brush north of Sooke Sunday, say RCMP.

The hunter, who lives at 118

Realizing he was lost, the warmly-dressed sportsman stopped walking and bedded down bush, he was in good condition when found Monday morning.

RCMP Const. Dan Steen and Mr. Thormore took just one hour to locate the missing man in daylight.

Overtime Loss

Canucks and Bucks Hurting Leafs Most

Inability to outscore Portland Buckaroos and Vancouver Canucks is one of the reasons for the stumbling start made by Victoria Maple Leafs.

Rudy Pilous' club is 0-4 against the Canucks and Buckaroos and 7-7 against the rest of the Western Hockey League. And what hurts the most is that it should have been 3-1 against the Buckaroos instead of the 0-4 it became Sunday night in Portland, when Tom McVie scored on the first direct shot of overtime to give Buckaroos a 3-2 win.

It was the seventh time, the fourth in overtime, that the Leafs have lost by the odd goal. And it was the third one-goal loss to Portland, who won, 4-3.

Bonus Babies Must Earn Fortunes

Cash on Delivery

By MILTON RICHMAN

HOUSTON (UPI) — Bye-bye bonus baby, and if any more kids are looking for that big money in baseball, it went that-a-way.

Disgusted, disillusioned and just plain doggone tired of digging deep down into their pockets to attract a different young phenom every other week, the owners called a sudden halt at the major league meetings here last week.

They did it simply by raising their hands, signifying their affirmative vote and passage of the free agent draft.

That doesn't necessarily mean they won't pay any more bonuses. It does mean, however, that such astronomical $200,000 bonuses as were paid youngsters like Rick Reichardt of the Angels and Bob Bailey of the Pirates are out.

"It also means," laughed Frank Lane, "that baseball people are openly admitting they're unable to cope with the business astuteness of a 17-year-old high school kid."

Be that as it may, the free agent draft, copied almost chapter, palm and verse from the one used by pro football, will save major league owners approximately $3 million a year. That's roughly the amount that went down the drain each year for fuzzy-cheeked sensations who never panned out.

The new draft obliges a selectee to dicker exclusively with the club that claims him and Cleveland's Gabe Paul feels it's "one of the greatest things that's ever happened to baseball."

Paul points out kids still will receive bonuses—"You have to be reasonable"—but says the new legislation will change the entire concept of scouting.

"Now we'll go back to talent scouting instead of romancing scouting," he said. "Scouts will be more valuable than ever but there won't be the necessity for romancing a boy for two-three years. By that I mean we won't have to keep camp on his doorstep and competing among ourselves."

Paul fully realizes no club will get any boy for nothing, even with the free agent draft. Those days are gone for good.

Yet, it's interesting to look back and see how many great ones did sign for nothing or right next to it.

Big Ernie Lombardi, George Kell, Maury Wills and Camilo Pascual never received a penny and the suspicion exists that Tony Oliva, Minnesota's rookie of the year, was lured into baseball with no more than a cheese sandwich.

Mel Stottlemyre also came merely to play and Stan Musial and Hank Bauer each drove hard bargains for $150. Yogi Berra and Steve Barber were $500 catches and Mickey Mantle was more than delighted with his $1,100 "bonus."

Lane even cited a case in which he thought too big a bonus proved a boomerang.

"We paid a kid named J. W. Porter $80,000 spread over five years while I was with the White Sox," Lane recalled. "He was an Okie and that $80,000 looked like $80,000,000 to him. He never saw or ever expected to see that kind of money in his life."

"I honestly think it killed his ambition. I think he would have been a much better ball player had he received a far more modest bonus."

Baseball now will try it the other way. The kid who delivers the most will get the most, but he won't get it before he delivers.

Fontinato Still in Hockey

Hull Needs Some Help

Bobby Hull is undoubtedly the successor to Gordie Howe and Maurice Richard, but great as he is, he'll need some help if Chicago Black Hawks are to be a National Hockey League playoff club for the seventh consecutive season.

Second by one point in each of their last two seasons, the Hawks thought this was the season for their first-ever NHL championship. But first place is already 10 points away, and matters seem to be getting steadily worse.

Hawks went winless through a fourth straight game Sunday night as New York Rangers, who must now be accepted as being for real, strengthened their hold on fourth place with a 4-1 win in Chicago.

Giants, Dodgers Stymied

Pay TV Roadblock Blow to Baseball

By TOMMY HOLMES

NEW YORK (PNS) — What might have amounted to a fantastic twin double for Walter O'Malley, formerly of Brooklyn and now of Los Angeles, failed to come off. Pay television took a resounding beating in California on election day, and, as a result, the Dodgers and the Giants may not profit from this medium unless the prohibition is overturned. This will take time and money.

This is a project that had been widely contemplated ever since the Giants and Dodgers moved to California in 1958. O'Malley and Horace Stoneham of the Giants both had telecast all of their home games while operating at the Polo Grounds and at Ebbets Field, plus 40 or 50 road games a season.

They had no intention of making the same mistake in virgin territory. The Los Angels and San Francisco areas were flooded with radio baseball programs, but the clubs established a stringent limitation of nine games a year on television.

The nine games the Dodgers played in San Francisco were televised in the Los Angeles area. The nine games the Giants played at Chavez Ravine were televised around San Francisco Bay. These, in essence, were "teasers" which stimulated live attendance. In San Francisco, attendance was far higher than Stoneham's Giants had enjoyed in New York. In Los Angeles, O'Malley's Dodgers set a major league record.

THE GIMMICK But pay television was the gimmick that O'Malley and Stoneham hoped would produce even higher revenue. Mathew M. Fox, boss of one of the early pay TV companies, is supposed to have paid Stoneham $1,000,000 in 1957, which paid the transcontinental moving expenses of the Giants. Other payments were to have followed, but Fox, who died last summer, ran out of cash.

BIG HOLDERS His estate remains the biggest stockholder in Subscription Television, Inc., holding 11.4 per cent of the stock according to the STV prospectus, which also showed that the Dodgers own 5.3 per cent of the shares and the Giants own 4.1 per cent.

Apparently, lack of adequate financing delayed the start of operations until this summer when the attempt was made to get going. On July 17, a night game between the Dodgers and the Cubs was programmed on a pay basis to become a first. On Aug. 14, the Giants started televising their home games for cash on the sound-bite.

NO SUCCESS The operation was a somewhat less than spectacular success. The best information is that only 4,000 sets equipped to get these games were in operation in southern California and about half that many in and around San Francisco.

Many of those watching from the sidelines felt that the fee was too high. They were charged $1.50 to watch a ballgame, which seems like an awful lot. We, in the East, after years of viewing the best in baseball at home for nothing, could never go for that. They thought they had a chance in California where fans who had seen virtually no baseball television would be hungry enough to pay the price.

THREE CHANNELS The project utilized three channels and presented other shows not available to free television and priced from 50 cents, but baseball was the big attraction and its start was lamentably slow. With the high operating costs, it is estimated that 70,000 sets in operation would be the break-even point and this seemed a long way in the future.

Then the voters got into the action to delay the promoters indefinitely. A petition gathered enough signatures to place a referendum on the ballot to bar pay TV in the state. More than five million voted and the measure carried by a margin of almost 2 to 1.

United Wins Crowd Raves In Hectic 4-4 Soccer Draw

VANCOUVER — Vancouver fans, fickle as the fog that drifted around Callister Park Sunday, came to jeer and stayed to cheer Victoria United to a remarkable 4-4 Pacific Coast League draw with Vancouver Firefighters.

The catcalls and boos bounced off the United for the first half, as they trailed 4-0 by the interval. Firefighters got into the act themselves by sending in their substitute goalie to give all-star keeper Ken Pears a rest.

Then it happened. United started the second half with new forward Bert Sauter and that worthy responded with a well-taken goal. Within six minutes United had two more and were making it 4-3 after Sauter's neat effort, which came on a left-footed kick.

Victoria claimed the third Vancouver goal was off-side and most of the crowd seemed to agree.

ARNIE AGREES
"I agree," said Palmer. "I've played in four of these tournaments, enjoyed them all, but I have always considered it strictly a team match and have subordinated the individual part of it."

Nicklaus won the individual title for the second straight year with a 72-hole score of 276. Palmer, leader for the first three days with rounds of 66, 67, finished second with 278 after shooting a 78 on his final round of the par-72 Kananisli Club course.

WIN TEAM TITLE
Nicklaus and Palmer won the team trophy—the fifth straight for the United States with a combined total of 554. They were 11 shots better than Argentina. South Africa was third at 569.

The Canadian pair, Al Bald-pressing. The 4-3 goal came from Dave McGee while Pears was hastily stripping off his sweatshirt in order to come back into play.

Even with Pears back into the cage, United kept on the pressure and Ash Valdel finally scored the equalizer six minutes from time with a 15-foot sizzler.

Victoria kept up the attack, striving for the winner with hard shots by Ced Robb and McGee all but finding the mark.

Nicklaus and Palmer Seeking New Rules

KAANAPALI, Maui, Hawaii (AP)—Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, who went home with the Canada Cup trophy, would like to see a change in the format of the international tournament.

"There's too much emphasis on the individual and not enough on the team," said Nicklaus, who rallied to beat out Palmer for the individual crown by two strokes Sunday.

"It should be strictly a team event—we are playing for our country, not ourselves."

"I agree," said Palmer. "I've played in four of these tournaments, enjoyed them all, but I have always considered it strictly a team match and have subordinated the individual part of it."

Basketball Wall to Fall

COURTENAY — The basketball boundary dividing Saanich and Victoria may come down. A notice of motion to that effect, to be made at the annual general meeting of the Vancouver Island Basketball Association, was read at a special association meeting here Sunday.

It was also decided that tournaments will be held this year in place of more expensive home and home series.

The following centres indicated their desire to host island tournaments this year: Victoria, pre-midget boys and girls, juvenile girls, and junior women; midget boys and girls, Nanaimo; bantam boys, Cumberland; bantam girls, Peninsula; senior B men and women, Nanaimo. Island centres also willing to host B.C. tournaments were: Victoria, pre-midget boys and girls; Nanaimo, midget boys and girls; Comox, juvenile boys; Victoria, junior women.

All tournaments will adhere to regulations rules and all games will be played under regulation time. A special announcement told members that the regulation playing time for juvenile games is now eight-minute quarters. This is a drop of two minutes from previous years when juveniles played four 10-minute quarters.

Oak Bay Wanderers Nip Cowichan, 22-17

Oak Bay Wanderers, led by a 13-point scoring effort on the part of fullback Don Burgess, tripped Cowichan, 22-17, in Victoria Rugby Union First Division play at Duncan on Sunday.

Burgess had two penalty goals, two converts and a try. Rob Moore, Ken Chaitel and Rob Stephenson added other tries in the high-scoring game. Cowichan's big gun was Jan Curmo, who kicked three penalty goals and a convert. Terry Ryan and John Harris each had a try.

Saturday University of Victoria drew 10-10 with unbeaten James Bay Athletic Association. Jack Patrick and Dan McLean with tries, and two converts by Chuck Weeks, accounted for the James Bay total. The University's points came on tries by Brian White and Terry Cox, both converted by Ron Todd.

In Second Division play, James Bay moved into a first-place tie with Naval Apprentices by defeating the sailors, 6-5. Oak Bay Wanderers defeated University, 19-8.

A junior game saw Oak Bay whip Colquitz, 16-14.

What's your stand on registering life insurance policies to claim certain income tax deductions?

Mr. Campbell
If it's possible, I'm all for it!

Interviewer
You'll be pleased to know you may register any Mutual Life policy, except Term, under the Income Tax Act. Subject to certain limitations, the savings portion of your premium can then be deducted from your taxable income each year.

It seems to me that everybody should know about this!

Interviewer
You're right! Particularly people who are building a pension for themselves. Even people now contributing to a company pension plan may qualify for further tax relief.

Liquor In Playhouse If Council Gets Way

Victoria theatre-goers will be able to get a drink at the McPherson Playhouse, if city council has its way.

The principle of serving liquor in the theatre was approved Monday by members of city council. City manager Dennis Young will investigate the matter and report back to the Recreation and Community Service Advisory Committee.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood was a bit doubtful.

"I wonder if we should check further into this matter," he said.

"No other theatre in town has the right to serve liquor and I am wondering if it would be wise to have it in a civic playhouse," he said.

"I like a drink as much as anyone," the alderman continued, "but I recall that Mr. McPherson never touched liquor. I wonder what the taxpayers would think, and I wonder if some of the city's businessmen might feel that we were in competition with them."

There is going to be no other theatre in town like the McPherson Playhouse, said Ald. Millard Mooney, so perhaps it should have special privileges.

Mayor R. B. Wilson said that he understood one theatre in Vancouver was able to serve liquor, and the way in which it got its licence might be investigated.

No Abuse by Victoria

Winter Work Aid Cut Spurs Plea to Ottawa

By A. H. MURPHY
City Hall Reporter

Unhappy with the curtailment of winter work assistance by the provincial government, Victoria will go to Ottawa and ask the federal government to extend and expand its plan.

The question was precipitated when a letter was read from the president of the Union of B.C. Municipalities, mainland Reeve Peter Jenewein, in which he described an interview he had with Premier Bennett on the question.

At the same time the province will be asked to reconsider its policy of giving aid on winter works only in cases where workmen are employed who have been on welfare for at least three months.

"Premier Bennett pointed out to Reeve Jenewein that the winter works program had been abused by the municipalities," said Mayor R. B. Wilson. "Well I want to say right now that it was never abused in Victoria and I think this should be made quite clear."

Ald. Millard Mooney pointed out that the provincial government had curtailed aid on municipal projects on which it (the government) had given approval.

It was true, said City Manager Dennis Young, that aid had been cut on jobs of a continuing nature which had been given approval by the province. Ald. A. W. Toome felt that it was unfair to ask the federal government to make up for the delinquency of the province.

"It's hardly fair to ask Ottawa to pitch in and carry the load which the province will not bear," he said.

The federal government will be approached through the Canadian Federation of Mayors to which the Victoria resolution will go.

Art by 'Seven' To Be Sold At Auction

An original painting by each member of the Group of Seven, famous Canadian painters, are among works of art to be sold at 7:30 p.m. today at Lund's semi-annual art auction.

In addition to small paintings by Franklin Carmichael, Lawrence Harris, A. Y. Jackson, Franz Johnston, Arthur Lismer, J. E. H. MacDonald and Frederick H. Varley, the original seven, the auction includes a large painting by Emily Carr, a seascape.

VICTORIA ARTIST

Two paintings by Victoria artist Herbert Seibner are among Canadian paintings. At its last art auction the firm sold pictures by Emily Carr, $2,100; A. Y. Jackson, $1,200; J. E. H. MacDonald, $3,900, and 11 small paintings by Clarence Gagnon for $4,430.

Power Blackout Hits City Area

Power was off for two minutes at about 4 p.m. Monday in the Hillside - Shelbourne - Cedar Hill area, when there was a temporary break in a circuit at the main B.C. Hydro substation in Victoria.

Saanich

Lighting Project Starting Shortly

Work on a $46,000 street lighting program in Saanich is expected to begin in mid-January.

Council has advertised its intention to carry out the work and affected ratepayers have 30 days to file objections.

FRONTAGE ASSESSMENT

The municipality will pay about $20,000 of the cost while the ratepayers involved will be assessed from 5.9 to 9.3 cents per frontage foot per year for 10 years to pay the balance.

Actual assessment depends on the area but the owner of a 50-foot lot will pay an average of $3.50 a year.

MARCH COMPLETION

Officials expect little objection to the program and if everything goes according to plan installation of the 190 mercury-vapor lights will begin about mid-January with tentative completion expected in mid-March.

Some of the lights will be installed on existing telephone and power poles while others will be erected on their own standards.

LOCATIONS

The full lengths of Cloverdale Avenue, Oak Street, Maple Street, Carleton Place, Cherry Lane Crescent, Seacroft Place and Shieling Place will be lighted. Lighting will also be installed on parts of Quadra Street, Cedar Hill Cross Road, Reynolds Road, Cedar Hill Road, Cook Street, Shelbourne Street, Tillicum Road, Carey Road, Glenford Avenue, Cadboro Bay Road, Telegraph Bay Road, Arbutus Road and Seaview Road.

Thugs Foiled

A snapped handbag handle thwarted efforts of two would-be purse snatchers on Oswego Street Monday.

Mrs. Ivy Doerksen, 114 Monies, was the intended victim.

As she was walking down the street, three youths approached her. Two of them reached at her and grabbed the handbag.

The youths fled when the handle snapped.

City Has Salty Plans For Crystal Takeover

The city will officially take over the Crystal Garden on Jan. 1, and if several aldermen have their way the swimming pool will be filled with salt water instead of fresh.

Notification by the Canadian Pacific Railway recently that it would not renew its lease on the building means the garden will revert to the city.

SALT WATER

The city will continue to operate the garden as a public recreation facility under the direction of the Recreation and Community Service Advisory Committee.

City aldermen in the past have often advocated the Garden pool again be filled with salt water

Tom turkeys await processing at the McCulloch turkey farm

'Our Worst Year So Far'

U.S. Imports Hurting Island Turkey Farms

By BOB DONAHUE

Turkeys that are being imported here from the United States are causing concern for Vancouver Island turkey farmers.

Some turkey farmers say the imports have already cut deeply into the market. Prices are down more than one cent a pound by the carload compared to last year.

If the exports continue a loss is feared on the approximately 55,000 turkeys produced on the Island each year.

QUOTA LIFTED

In previous years United States turkey farmers were allowed to bring in only 4,000,000 pounds of turkeys throughout the year.

Last year the quota was lifted completely and they have already brought in 10,000,000 pounds.

"This is the worst year so far," said Curtis McCulloch, vice-president of the B.C. Turkey Association. "The imports are really hurting us."

PROFITS TOO SMALL

There are fewer than 15 turkey farmers on Vancouver Island. Present members say they can remember when there were more than 50 members, but too small profits have closed a lot of the farms.

At the last meeting of the association, held in Nanaimo, only 12 members attended for the whole province.

The largest Vancouver Island turkey farm produces about 6,000 birds a year and only employs about six people in peak periods.

Mr. McCulloch said toms will sell wholesale for 45 cents a pound; bronze hens for 50 cents a pound, and eight to 12-pound birds for 55 cents a pound.

Retailers usually take a markup of between eight and 15 cents a pound.

Although the birds range in size from six to 35 pounds, the most popular are the bronze hens which weigh between 14 and 20 pounds.

"Smaller families prefer the Roastend White hens which weigh between eight and 12 pounds," said Mr. McCulloch.

Films on Parks

Provincial Parks Branch public relations officer W. D. Reith will show slides featuring B.C. parks and wilderness to the Victoria Camera Club at 7:45 p.m. Dec. 16, in the St. John Ambulance Hall, 941 Pandora Avenue.

Medicine Here

No Trip Necessary For Leukemia Victim

Leukemia-stricken Margaret Kallis, 3, of 2704 Millstream, won't be making a proposed trip to England for treatment.

Her father, Pieter Kallis, 35, had walked into the Colonist office Saturday asking for further information on a news story about a British drug.

TWO HELPED

The medicine, mercaptopurine, had apparently cured two child victims of the killer blood disease, according to British pediatrician Dr. S. E. Keidan.

Mr. Kallis told the Colonist he would take the recently-stricken girl to England if necessary to obtain the drug.

Sunday his doctor called to say the medicine, chemically related to mustard gas, is available here, and not excessively expensive.

The child is already being treated with a similar drug, which Mr. Kallis says was chosen by specialists and his family doctor as most effective for the acute type of leukemia from which Margaret suffers.

The father plans to consult doctors on the question of switching treatments.

THANKS FOR OFFERS

"I am very grateful to the many people who have called me to offer their help," said Mr. Kallis Monday, "but it won't be necessary now."

With the trip to England made needless the family of five is under no financial strain.

"I am one of the fortunate ones who has a job and a home, so I won't need any help," he added.

Many Meetings Await Candidates

Candidates in Saturday's municipal elections in the capital region can appeal to the voters at various meetings this week.

Two all-candidate meetings have been arranged for Saanich and one each for Victoria, Central Saanich, Sidney, Esquimalt and Oak Bay.

All 42 candidates fighting for 18 seats are expected to speak at the meetings.

They start tonight with Central Saanich contestants meeting at 8 in the Brentwood Women's Institute Hall and Saanich candidates gathering at the same time in Mount View High School.

Saanich candidates will also meet again at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Royal Oak School while Victoria's aldermanic hopefuls battle it out at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Sir James Douglas School. The Oak Bay municipal hall will host Oak Bay candidates at 8 p.m. Wednesday. Sidney's meeting will be held in the Sidney Hotel at 8 p.m. Thursday while Esquimalt candidates will meet at the same time in Jubilee hall on Fraser Street.

Saanich Opposes Return of Court

Establishing centralized court facilities in Victoria will be a "great inconvenience" to Saanich police, council and the police commission said Monday night.

As a result the two groups are sending a letter to Attorney General Bonner expressing grave concern over the centralization possibility.

Taking prisoners into Victoria will mean using two policemen and a car, the letter explains.

Saanich is now designated as the central court location in Greater Victoria but council and the commission fear completion of Victoria's new police quarters will result in the abandonment of Saanich facilities.

BURKE COURT

The letter pointed out that Saanich court cases are rapidly growing and in the not too distant future court will probably be sitting daily instead of the present three afternoons a week.

It requests that Saanich's own police court remains in the Saanich police building because of the "very great inconvenience and the additional expense incurred in transferring prisoners to another location."

MEETING ASKED

These factors, the letter explains, "far outweigh any advantages which might accrue from the establishment of a central police court."

The letter asks Mr. Bonner to meet with representatives of council and the police commission to discuss the problem.

Bride Carries White Orchid

A gown of white nylon antron over taffeta was worn by Margaret Henrietta Laycock on Saturday evening when she exchanged marriage vows with Warren Keith Smith.

The gown was styled on sheath-lines and highlighted with an embossed petal design. Her embroidered chapel-length veil misted from a coronet of white silk organza leaves. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, gift of the groom, and she carried a white Cattleya orchid accented with trailing ivy.

Parents of the couple are Mr. John Laycock, 4187 Wilkinston Road, and the late Mrs. Laycock, and Mr. and Mrs. Warren F. Smith, 835 Easter Road. Mr. Laycock gave his daughter in marriage.

Brigadier R. Frewing officiated at the ceremony in the Salvation Army Citadel. Soloist, Miss Jean Wilson, sang "O Perfect Love" during the ceremony. She was accompanied by Gladstone Clarke.

Identical bouquets of peacock blue rayon chiffon over taffeta were choice of matron of honor, Mrs. P. Jenkins, the groom's sister, and bridesmaid, Mrs. Ken Ross. They complemented their gowns with floral headpieces and tulle on floor. Their bouquets were white Phalaenopsis orchids with trailing ivy.

Jack Laycock, brother of the bride, was best man. Guests were ushered to their seats by Clarence Anderson and Pat Jenkins, the groom's brother-in-law.

Frank Boon proposed the toast to his niece at a reception that followed in the Salvation Army Hall. The head table was flanked by candles and arrangements of white chrysanthemums. Guests' tables were centred with arrangements of matching flowers.

The bride's going-away outfit was a red two-piece knit suit accented with a black hat and matching accessories. Her corsage was a black orchid.

The couple is now making their home at Cordova Bay.

Mrs. R. Knutsen, 2368 Malvern Avenue, Sidney, announces the forthcoming marriage of her youngest daughter, Lorraine Elizabeth, to Mr. Gerald W. P. Burns of Dawson Creek, B.C., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Burns, Calgary, Alta. The wedding will take place at 4 p.m., Monday, Dec. 28, in Sacred Heart Church with Father B. Hanley officiating.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My husband told me last night that from now on he flatly refuses to look at any more home movies. He said the next time this thing is visited on him he is walking out of the house—no matter whose it is. Frankly, after last night I can't blame him.

We were invited to what we thought was a dinner party. When we arrived, the host was serving cocktails. Promptly at 7:30 p.m. (no food in sight—no even a cracker) the host halted on the projection equipment. Twenty of us were literally trapped in the basement for three solid hours looking at home movies.

The movies were of their kids, their trips, parades and what have you. It went back to 1936 and even took in his career in the army. The equipment went on the bum several times and the film tore. Some of the men got dead drunk in self-defence. I was so hungry my head was breaking. My husband was practically frothing at the mouth.

How can people protect themselves against this sort of thing? Please advise.—PARALYZED EYEBALLS.

Dear Eyeballs: Some home movies are great entertainment—for those who are interested. A host and hostess who plan such an evening should inform the guests in advance. Guests who are NOT forewarned should use their heads and sit in the back of the room—near a door.

Dear Ann Landers: I have not mentioned this to my folks yet because they both have pretty hot tempers and I don't know how they'll take it. I am a boy, 18, who has been going with a girl who is 16. This girl has been nagging me to get married but I am too young to take on the responsibilities of marriage and I have told her so a dozen times.

Last night we had another big argument over this and I was doing just fine until her father and brother got into the act. They said I no longer have a choice, on account of her condition (if you know what I mean.)

Will you please tell me the score? —RATHER CONCERNED

Dear Rather: I know PRECISELY what you mean. And this is a fine time to be asking the score.

No one can force you to marry the girl if you don't want to. You are obliged to pay the girl's medical bills and support the child if she decides she wants to keep the child. You are, of course, financially responsible for the child until he is of legal age.

If your father will not (or cannot) help you meet this obligation you may have to quit school and go to work.

Miss Judy Gardner was maid of honor for her sister. She chose a beige brocade satin gown with a whimsie and accessories in tone. White carnations and pink roses formed her bouquet.

John Ball was best man and Stan Elliott ushered guests to their seats.

A wedding cake, made and decorated by Mrs. A. Paul, centred the bride's table at a reception that followed in the home of the groom's parents. It was decorated with small basket hearts and iced pink roses. The couple's initials were embossed on the top layer and completing the decorations was a loving cup of fresh flowers.

Central Saanich

Retired Law Secretary Running for Councillor

By TRUDY KEMP
Running for councillor in Central Saanich election this Saturday is Mrs. Margaret Salt, who has spent the past 34 years working as secretary to judges of B.C. Appeal Court.

Mrs. Salt, who retired from her secretarial duties Nov. 30, is second-generation born in Victoria. She is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Sam Eastman, who were both born here, and the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Winter.

Her grandfather Winter was the coachman for early-day governors, Kennedy, Seymour and Trutch. Jessie Winter, Mrs. Salt's mother, was born in the coach house at old Cary Castle.

Mrs. Salt went into stenographic work fresh from school during 1914-18 war and her first position was with Canadian Explosives. She later joined the Department of Labor, B.C. Government, remaining there until June, 1927, when she left for New Zealand to marry Mr. Tyrrel F. C. Salt who had preceded her several months before.

Mrs. Salt, who died just five months ago, and his bride remained in New Zealand for about five months. On their return to Victoria they settled on 14 acres on Welch Road, Central

Mrs. Margaret Salt.

Saanich, in a house Mrs. Salt's father had built in the early '20's.

Up until a few years ago, Mrs. Salt, who still lives in the Welch Road home, did a good deal of the gardening and keeping the place in tip top shape. It was nothing for the neighbors to see her up on the tractor and doing the plowing and cultivating... and she loved every minute of this outdoor life.

She still finds time to knit toys for the youngsters at the Protestant Orphanage and to keep up with her pen pals from all over the world. She is also a collector of salt and peppers and now has 2,500 different pairs including some from Denmark, Ireland, New Zealand, India, France, Sweden and Great Britain. Many of these have been sent by her pen pals.

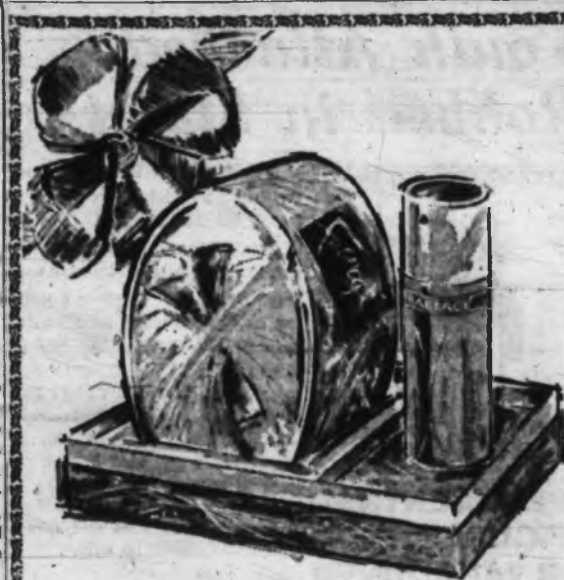

Mrs. Salt has one son, William, who is with an oil company in Calgary and three grandchildren.

Among the many judges Mrs. Salt has served during her years with the Court of Appeal were Chief Justice Gordon Sloan, for whom she was secretary for 16 years, and the late Chief Justice Archer Martin.

On her retirement Mrs. Salt was presented with an engraved gold watch and framed certificate for "meritorious service" by Attorney General Robert Bonner.

Active all her life, she realized once she retired she had to seek something else that would keep her busy and happy. She decided to try her hand at community work and as a result consented to run for councillor in Central Saanich.

"This is my first time to enter into public life," she said.

Speak Bluntly Strachan Urges Aggression

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan urged his New Democrats towards more hard-hitting, aggressive policies, during a provincial council meeting Saturday in Vancouver.

The party has been too soft-spoken in recent years but now must state its aims bluntly—for example, that telephones should be under public ownership, he said.

"Providing the proposals are of the type necessary to create the kind of British Columbia we want, we must put them forward clearly and forcibly," said Mr. Strachan.

Agent Claims

Sex a Part Of His Party Duties

JOHANNESBURG URG (Reuters) — A police secret agent who infiltrated the banned South African Communist Party told a court Monday it was part of his duties to have sexual relations with women in the movement.

Agent Gerald Ludi testified at the trial of Abram Fischer, 51, a leading member of the Johannesburg bar, and 13 other whites charged with being members of the Communist party and furthering its aims.

Ludi said he found the people he was associating with "exceedingly lax in their morals."

Aldous Backs 72-Hour Week For Ferries

B.C. Ferry Authority general manager Monty Aldous Monday defended the government's stand in calling for a 72-hour six-day work week on the ferry Queen of Sidney.

There would be less layoffs if the crews who were not busy most of the year worked the longer shifts during the three-month summer period, he said.

The average ferry crew work week for the year is 41 hours.

Mr. Aldous said the Queen of Sidney, which will run from Swartz Bay through the Gulf Islands to Tsawwassen and back starting next summer, "is really only required for the three-month period."

Have Police Given Up On Ross Bay Cemetery?

Have the police given up on Ross Bay Cemetery? Are they not able to patrol it? asked Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow Monday at a meeting of city council.

The alderman was commenting on a letter received by the city in which a security company offered to patrol the park with a police dog four or five times every night.

"I think it's terrible that people, desecrate the cemetery," said Ald. Edgelow, "but it's a serious matter when we have to hire somebody to patrol. Surely that is a job for our police."

The matter will be referred to the police commission.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissue.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved... actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months. This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator). Satisfaction guaranteed or your money refunded.

He Struck Saanich Woman

A Kelowna man went to jail for six months Monday after being found guilty of assaulting a Saanich woman last summer and failing to appear for trial. Robin Finch had pleaded guilty to both at the same time that he didn't assault the woman.

Magistrate William Ostler ordered the trial last week when he was unable to determine what plea was being entered. Finch told court he had entered the Saanich home only to retrieve his coat, left there earlier.

The woman awoke and telephoned police, then hauled his way to the front door when he tried to leave, he said.

He denied punching and kicking her but admitted he "slapped" her to get her out of his way.

Mr. Ostler said he was convicting the man on his own testimony that he assaulted the woman.

A second, concurrent, six-month term was added for his failure to appear earlier.

In Esquimalt court Mr. Ostler fined two sailors $200 each for assaulting another man at a Nov. 14 post-party brawl on a residential street.

Joseph Desrochers and Norman Adam, both of HMCS Ste. Therese, had been charged with assault occasioning bodily harm to Leading Seaman Phillip G. Thomas, of HMCS Ottawa.

Defence counsel Cecil Branson asked for leniency for the sailors because of the "extreme provocation" involved.

The magistrate said he saw no provocation mentioned in the prosecution reports, ordered earlier after the two men pleaded guilty.

He said there was no provocation for both the accused.

sailors to have kicked the third man when he was knocked to the street.

"It is quite possible for a man to be killed by a misplaced boot. Fighting is one thing, but kicking a man when he is down is quite another."

Probation and psychiatric reports were ordered by Magistrate Ostler on an 18-year-old youth who pleaded guilty to indecent exposure in Esquimalt Nov. 30.

Flavel Hall, 951 Dingley Dell, was remanded to Dec. 14 in custody.

He was arrested after a woman complained a nude youth had exposed himself to her as she walked past a garage at his home.

A Victoria woman stood in the prisoner's box with a baby in her arms and reserved plea for a week on a charge of fraudulently passing another woman's family allowance cheque.

Mrs. Norma Gabriel, 2659 Rose, told court she had not completed arrangements for legal counsel. She will appear again Dec. 14.

A few bottles of beer in his car cost David Twyman, 19, of 1058 Crescent Road, $45 in Esquimalt magistrates court.

Police stopped the youth in Esquimalt Nov. 29, found the beer and then checked his licence. He was charged with being a minor without insurance and being a minor in possession of liquor.

He pleaded guilty and was given a month to pay the fines when he told court he was unemployed.

Well it doesn't anymore. That fine old bottle has launched its last sip. We've designed a new container for Gooderham's Bonded Stock. Tall and refined with classic lines. ## Garden Notes

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRES

Most of the plants we grow are valued for the beauty and charm of their flowers, and there are others whose claim to fame lies in their attractive foliage. Some rare consideration on account of their colorful fruit or berries—the Jerusalem Cherry is a good example for neither its blossoms nor its foliage are particularly attractive.

There is a select company of plants, though, numbering both outdoor subjects and indoor houseplants, which are notable because of the parlor tricks they can perform!

A good example is the Sensitive Plant, Mimosa pudica, a roadside weed in the tropics and easily grown as a houseplant from seed.

This is one of the most extraordinary plants known to man, because if you touch one of its leaves with, say, the point of a pencil, the leaves all collapse and the whole plant "plays dead." After a few minutes, the plant will straighten itself out and the leaves gradually resume their normal position.

This ability to play possum is believed to be a protective measure to keep the plant from being eaten by grazing animals. Strangely enough, the Sensitive Plant grows tired if you make it perform its parlor trick too often, taking longer and longer to recuperate from its apparently wilted condition.

One beloved houseplant with a somewhat startling habit is Impatiens, a name easily translated even by those who know no Latin. It does, indeed, mean "impatient," and this refers to the explosive way in which the seeds are "fired" by the ripe seed pods.

One of its common nicknames is Patience Plant, a distortion of its true name; another is Busy Lizzie, bestowed because of its habit of blooming busily almost all year round.

Some close relatives are the Touch-me-not, The Jewel Weed, and the Polkman's Helmet, all with the same explosive seed pods.

Another family of parlor trick plants fires its pollen rather than its seeds. One of these is the Artillery Plant, Pilea microphylla, and it is most interesting, on a still, warm day, to see the plant ejecting little puffs of pollen as the ripe, coiled-up stamens are released suddenly, like a broken spring.

A cousin is the Aluminum Plant, grown for its metallic-hued foliage, and this one too can discharge pollen in a visible cloud if given a slight shake to persuade it to go into its act.

The Obedient Plant, Physostegia virginiana, must be a constant source of delight to floral devotees, for its florets are adjustable! Each floret on the stem may be bent this way or that, faced forward, sideways, upward or downward, and however you position them, they stay, almost as if they came equipped with ball and socket joints.

Given the right atmospheric conditions, another plant with unusual and dramatic properties is the Golf Plant or Burning Bush, Dicentra alba.

A hardy and long-lived outdoor perennial with white or purple flowers, one needs a warm, windless night to demonstrate its spectacular parlor trick.

Just strike a match and hold it near the bottom of the flower spike and the whole thing will go poof in a sheet of blue flame.

This is because the upper part of the stem has tiny glands which exude a lemon-scented oil, and in hot weather this oil vaporizes and becomes an inflammable gas, hence its two nicknames.

Books by Weight, Paintings by the Yard

Culture Sold By the Pound

By ART SEIDENBAUM

The cultural bulk business is getting bigger.

Even as we give refined cheers, in Latin, to the connoisseurs who collect by knowing, there is an ever-growing crowd of people who think of books and paintings as so much necessary furnishing, stuffing for the inside of the house. They have their own standards.

Buying books by the pound. Paintings by the yard. Recordings by the dozen.

Cult-bulk, or non-connoisseur collecting, is a sort of instant business, a response to the overnight needs of a rapidly-changing world.

Just as some people have an inner compulsion to landscape their properties with entire gardens and forests grown and matured elsewhere, non-con collectors must have a stock of lined shelves and filled frames at the drop of an escrow.

Model home builders have been instrumental in all these areas. You hammer together a model library. It has in look like one. So you go to a friendly merchant of literature and ask how many hard-cover books you can buy for $200, never mind the contents.

In the time-honored tradition of the butcher business, the bookman quotes a price per pound. There may be grades, of course: Shakespeare, Tolstol and Chaucer called prime; Poe, Dickens, Swift being choice; Spillane, Uria, Packard classed as commercial.

The bindings are important, a matched leather set bringing more than an obviously used collection of Sam Johnson.

Book clubs have been a subtle force in the same direction. "Choose any six of these best-sellers for one dollar," say the ads, thereby offering to fill one-fourth of a shelf in one coupon swoop. Then, for the next year or years, the club member receives a volume or two a month without his needing to leave the house or even read a review.

Having so conveniently purchased his library, the non-con collector is under no real obligation to read the books in it. Ease of acquisition is an underrated trouble of our time.

It is rude to snoop a man's shelves to see whether the inside pages of heavier works are sliced or have bugs squashed in them (a sure proof of readership.) It is ruder still to ask a man whether he's read the Churchill Second World War series (a cult-bulk favorite because of its thickness and the number of clubs that have made it available.) But snobs have learned that paperbacks are a good rule of thumb. Few non-cons have a large supply of paper-covered volumes (poor weight, bad density, plain bindings.) Real book readers do, even if the paperbacks are not stored for display in the living room.

Hotels have helped make the yardage an art. There are firms that turn out originals the way other firms make sausages. A client needs 300 paintings for his new luxury motel. Prints by Miro, Klee and Van Gogh will not do (the discriminating tourist does not want to pay $25 a day to have a print above his bed-heads, better he should enjoy an abstract ton worth less than its frame.)

I know a former cult-bulk painter. In his prime this now-serious artist was able to brush out 50 paintings a day. What he did, or how he did, was to set up 16 empty canvases at a time. Then he walked by them, first with a red brush, then with a yellow brush, next with a blue. Voilà!—16 separate abstractions, each signed with a fictitious brush name.

The economics of painting for non-cons is wondrous. My friend earned $85 a week for those productive weeks in which he turned out 250 paintings; that made each original worth 34 cents apiece.

And people buy it and put it in their homes.

A square foot of genuine lath and plaster is worth much more. The yardage painting, however, is often used to match the color scheme. Cult-bulkers never clash. A green painting for a tan wall; a blue painting for a gray wall; these people appreciate co-ordination.

Almost two decades ago, there were the revolutions—from 75 of them to 33 or 45 of them—in the recording industry. In the old days, phonograph records really had weight and occupied space. Then, while the music swelled, the discs themselves shrunk. And for several years, there was almost no cult-bulding of records.

Volumes of labels, of retail outlets—has remade the market. Does it matter who is playing what when you can buy a whole LP for 69 cents in the drug store? A dozen of them for $10? A man can fill a record rack in a moment of non-con buying.

The trend is the non-con way. And I expect there may soon come a day when a man can walk into a bookstore that is arranged much like an old-fashioned candy counter.

Conspicuous consuming without time-consuming browsing, he'll be able to say, "I'd like 50 worth of English poets, 50 worth of American history, 12 pounds of spicy French novels, and 10 pounds of philosophy. Be sure you trim the jackets."

And paintings could be sold by swatches; in the next, non-con world, things match.

ART BUCHWALD Has a Tale to Tell

Mrs. Kennedy At War

WASHINGTON—The Robert F. Kennedys are a close-knit family and Ethel Kennedy is a strong-willed person, and therefore hangs a tale.

A few weeks ago the Kennedys decided to take their children and a few friends to a film in Washington, D.C. It was the first outing for Kennedy since his election and he was looking forward to it.

They chose what they thought to be a cowboy picture titled The Man from Rio, but when they got into the theatre they discovered it was a French comedy with English subtitles.

Mrs. Kennedy was very upset, particularly since several of the children couldn't read.

She told Kennedy she would get their money back and they would go to another movie. She went outside to the box office and explained to the cashier she didn't know the picture was a foreign one and asked for her money back.

The cashier said it was against the policy of the theatre to refund any tickets and anyone should have known it was a foreign picture just by the cast.

Mrs. Kennedy retorted that it was up to the theatre to advertise they were showing a film with subtitles and she demanded to see the manager.

The manager finally arrived and Mrs. Kennedy explained the situation again.

The manager was no more sympathetic than the cashier. He said the policy of the theatre chain was no refunds. Mrs. Kennedy said she had several children with her who couldn't read subtitles and she had been misled.

The manager offered to let her take the ones who couldn't read across the street to see Rio, an American film. Mrs. Kennedy said she refused to split up her family.

As an afterthought she said, "I know Pierre Salinger and he may become the head of the Motion Picture Producers Association and I'm going to see the first thing he does is make a ruling that your theatre must indicate on the outside when it is showing a foreign film."

Mrs. Kennedy was so adamant that the manager finally said, "All right, lady, I'll mail you the money. What's your name?"

"Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy," the manager gulped. "Any relation to the senator?"

"His wife."

"You can get your money back now."

Mrs. Kennedy went back to the box office, but the cashier told her she would have to wait in line. She said she wasn't moving until she got her money.

The cashier realized she meant business and said, "Give me your stubs."

Mrs. Kennedy could find only 12 stubs. She needed 14.

The cashier called the manager and he said, "Give her anything."

It took 40 minutes, but Mrs. Kennedy swept into the theatre triumphantly with the money in her hand. She told Kennedy they could leave now. Kennedy said, "I don't want to leave. This is one of the funniest pictures I've ever seen."

All the children shouted, "We don't want to leave! We're going to stay until it's over!"

With tears in her eyes the pregnant Mrs. Kennedy returned the money to the box office.

The happy side to the story is that Mrs. Kennedy is still talking to her husband—but just barely.

Divorce Filed Before the Row

By SHEILAH GRAHAM

Red Taylor's filing for divorce from former model Mary Hylan was a complete surprise to Mary. In fact they were having an argument that same night, and Mary suggested that perhaps they should think of a divorce. He started her by saying that he had filed the suit that afternoon.

Universal will shoot two TV series in their entirety, in New York—Robert Ryan's indictment, to be filmed all over Manhattan, and the Alvin Karpis show. . . . Robert Shaw, so good in that Ginger Coffey movie, will be going before the cameras again in A Fine Madness with his wife Mary Ure. I hope. They make a fine movie couple.

Jill St. John was very good singing and dancing on the Steve Lawrence spectacular, and Broadway producers of musicals are dangling some tempting offers. . . . David Niven has signed for Pampero to Oblivion to be made in Beirut for producer Val Guest. . . . a big problem. How to make Stephen Law look 80 years old for a segment in Lady L? ## French Actors Threaten Strike

PARIS (UPI)—French actors and actresses threatened Monday to strike against the government-run radio and television in a demand for higher pay and better working conditions.

Current number one French screen hero Jean-Paul Belmondo, in his role as president of the actors union, presided over a meeting of actors at a Paris theatre.

The actors voted to take any action necessary, "including a strike," in the immediate future to press their demands.

They were asking that minimum salaries be raised, that pay checks be delivered sooner and that facilities such as dressing rooms be improved.

Students Drop Bid to Fight Armstrong Ban

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI)—University of Alabama students have dropped a petition criticizing the school's decision to bar Negro trumpeter Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong from the campus.

About 1,000 students had signed the petition before it was dropped over the weekend because of a dispute among its sponsors. The petition was aimed at inducing the administration to change its stand on Armstrong's appearance.

The university's Cotillion Club had sought Armstrong and his band to play Feb. 17 during the Festival of Arts Week. The club had agreed to pay $4,000 to the Negro jazzman, according to its president, Bill Cardwell.

CHANGE URGED

University President Dr. Frank Rose Jr. insisted the decision to prevent the proposed performance by Armstrong was not made because the entertainer is a Negro. However, the student newspaper, Crimson and White, disagreed and charged in an editorial that Armstrong's race was the reason.

Editor Bill Platt urged the administration to change its decision.

Rose said the editorial was incorrect but refused to disclose the reasons behind the decision.

REASON NOT GIVEN

The decision came last Tuesday and was brought into the open a few days later when a story and editorial appeared in the Crimson and White. A group of students circulated the petition Friday. The drive was dropped over the weekend.

Cardwell said Rose confided in him and other student leaders the reasons behind banning Armstrong but he was not at liberty to discuss them.

UNWISE

The Crimson and White said it understood the administration was not banning Negro performers and that this was probably a one-shot action. The newspaper said the administration apparently felt it would be unwise to have a big name star at this time.

The editorial said:

"Louis Armstrong is a great American. His contribution to our heritage, our folklore and our music is immeasurable and is a part of the south's contribution because he is a southerner."

"It will be a shame if the University of Alabama is denied the right to hear one of the south's most famous personalities and one of the world's most talented musicians."

Miller Play

Theme Fine, But Play Static, Dull

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI)—The responsibility of man—the individual—to the general welfare of mankind is the theme of Arthur Miller's Incident at Vichy, which opened at the Washington Square Theatre last week.

The theme is fine, but the play is a static and, to be quite blunt about it, dull affair.

As the second production of the season by the Repertory Theatre of Lincoln Centre, it is hardly an encouraging addition to its repertoire.

While the setting is Vichy, France, and the time September 1942, with a German roundup of suspected Jews involved, the author obviously has in mind that there is no time limit on the theme. It applies to the present as well as to any time in the past.

The main point is made through an Austrian prince, mistakenly brought in along with an assorted lot of men. He is a most moral fellow, not a Jew, he has never done anything against the Jews. But a Jewish doctor, also rounded up, convinces him in the end that the mere fact that he has done nothing against anyone does not mean he is not responsible for the acts of others.

The prince gives the doctor his own pass to freedom as the climax of the drama.

Geraldine a Hit As Female Marty

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—New movie—

Evie Jackson is the kind of woman who knows everyone in her coach by the time she gets off the train. She telephones welcome messages to be delivered to herself, so people at the hotel won't think she's lonely. She knows every bellboy by name and has herself paged in the lobby.

She is a smalltown postmaster—she prefers the title of postmistress, which sounds racy to her.

STRIVES DESPERATELY

In New York on a convention, she strives desperately to involve herself with other people's lives and to avoid the clutches of three old-maid harpies who want her in their bridge-and-gossip matches. But she also tries to avoid the trap of another convention idyll with a handsome married man.

Evie Jackson is one of the world's lonely crowd. She is portrayed brilliantly by Geraldine Page in a fine new film bearing the innocuous title of Dear Heart.

RESEMBLES MARTY

Dear Heart by any name seems to be the most promising sleeper since Marty, which it resembles.

Not that Dear Heart was made on a shoestring; it is a production throughout. But it qualifies for classification as a sleeper, defined as an unheralded film that far exceeds ordinary expectations.

What makes it so good? In the beginning it was a script by Tad Mosel which is human without being sentimental. It

Councillor Says:

The Problem Is Shortage Of Nurses

The waiting list for those requiring hospital attention at the Royal Jubilee is due simply to a shortage of nurses, Mrs. Frances Elford told fellow Oak Bay councillors Monday night.

The municipality's representative on the Jubilee hospital board said the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service was not to blame for the non-utilization of beds.

"More money is available from the service if the hospital can hire additional nurses and hence take in more patients," Coun. Elford said.

CONTROVERSY

She referred to the recent controversy over unused beds and long waiting lists for admission.

"The whole affair was most unfortunate," she said.

"Jubilee hospital has been performing a tremendous service. The board is engaged in constant planning."

The "fift" of the recent fift-up was caused in part because of lack of liaison between the board and the medical staff.

THREE PROJECTS

"Recent meetings between these groups and with the deputy minister of health have done much to rectify the situation."

The board representative reported progress on three large projects at the hospital.

Tenders for a boiler system have been called which will serve not only the Jubilee but also the new 410-bed mental hospital to be built on Lee Avenue, and the Veterans' Hospital.

FIFTH FLOOR

"The board proposes a fifth floor is to be added on the south wing of the Jubilee for a new laboratory to cost $300,000.

Coun. Elford said the new facilities, together with use of the old operating room, will mean 2½ to three times more space for laboratory work.

A new nursing school, now in a number of army huts, will be built at a cost of $450,000."

PROJECT GRANTS

Money for the three projects would be provided through provincial, federal and municipal grants.

"In addition a sizable private donation has been given for the construction of the nursing school."

The new nursing school would not necessarily mean more nurses and hence more use of beds.

The number trained is limited by the number of wards in which nurses can get experience. This means about 75 nurses a year at the present time."

NINE NURSES

The councillor said that in order to get maximum services from nurses available the intensive care ward has been temporarily closed. The ward had tied up nine nurses serving six or seven patients.

"The move was made in order to open up 30 beds that the nine could serve."

Another move by the hospital board was "to ferret out former nurses in the community, all willing to work the regular hours and shifts."

IMPRACTICAL

Mrs. Elford said accepting former nurses willing to work part-time would not be practical because of scheduling problems. A regular complement was needed around the clock.

She said there would be some easing in the situation with next month's graduating class.

"As it is we are training 50 per cent more than 10 years ago."

Rioters Sack U.S. Library

JAKARTA (Reuters) — A mob of about 1,000 persons ransacked the United States information service library in Surabaya, East Java, Monday night, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said here Monday.

The demonstrators smashed windows and furniture and burned and damaged about 4,000 of the 16,000 books in the library, he said.

Ayrshire Club Elects Officers

DUNCAN—The Vancouver Island Ayrshire Club elected John Balme of Cobble Hill as its president during the 19th annual meeting of the club here at the weekend.

Other executive members are Alex Sin of Comox, vice-president; Mrs. Betty Stevenson of Cowichan Station, secretary, and the B.C. club will hold its first annual meeting on Vancouver Saville, both of Sidney, Archie Stevenson of Cowichan Station and Neil Dougan of Cobble Hill. Mr. Reimer and Mrs. Stevenson were also elected as Island directors on the B.C. Ayrshire Club executive.

The Stevenson trophy for best cow of the year was awarded to the UBC farm at Oyster River, and members learned the B.C. club will hold its first annual meeting on Vancouver Island at Nanaimo Jan. 9.

Minister Can't Act On 'Disaster' Plea

Agriculture Minister, Frank Richter said Monday he cannot act on a request that the government declare the Fraser Valley a disaster area.

"There is only one way these people can be helped and that is by controlling floodwaters on the upper reaches of the Fraser River," he said.

This should be done as soon as possible by implementing the report of the Fraser River Board, which proposed a $400,000,000 flood control program, he said.

EIGHT DAMS

Involved in the scheme is construction of eight dams, and diversion of the upper Fraser.

An organization which calls itself the Fraser Valley Disaster Committee has contacted Mr. Richter and Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan asking for immediate government action to alleviate flooding in several areas.

Mr. Richter said he has no power to declare it or any other part of the province a disaster area. That rests with Highways Minister Gagliardi.

"I do not blame the federal government or the provincial government (for the flooding)," said Mr. Richter.

"It is just something that exists. We can expect it to happen any year until flooding is controlled on the whole river. "However, I'm sorry for these farmers. The same thing happened to me."

BOUGHT FARM LAND

Mr. Richter said that in 1948 he bought 25 acres of farm land knowing that it was subject to flooding. The first year he put $20,000 cash into river protection, and "might as well have thrown the money into the river for all the good it did."

Alberni Valley

Study Slated On Pollution

PORT ALBERNI—A study to determine whether there is a connection between respiratory diseases and air pollution from pulp mills will be started here early next year, says Health Minister Martin.

He said the Alberni Valley appears to have a disproportionately high rate of respiratory ailments.

UBC TEAM

The survey will be conducted by a research team from the University of British Columbia department of preventive medicine, aided by public health workers and financed by a national health grant.

They will compare the respiratory conditions of Alberni Valley children with children in a mainland community which is free of pulp mills, he said.

"There is very little, if any, evidence from studies done elsewhere that would serve to link upper respiratory infection with the discharge from pulp mills," he said, "and we are not too hopeful of finding that the apparent high rate of respiratory infection in the Alberni is due to chemicals being discharged into the air."

The first in a series of studies will start early in 1965, and results will help determine if a full investigation is warranted, he said.

Mr. Martin made his announcement in a letter to George McKnight, an aldermanic candidate who had demanded such a study.

Ottawa Lifts Threat Of RCMP Cutoff

The federal government has lifted the threat of an abrupt termination of RCMP services to the provinces next May by announcing the present contract will run until March 31, 1966.

Attorney-General Bonner said Monday further talks with Justice Minister Favreau, scheduled to be held this week in Ottawa, have been postponed until the middle of January to permit the provinces to study the new offer.

"SUBSTANTIAL JUMP"

It represents a moderation of the federal government's previous stand, he said, but would mean even on the present cost-sharing basis "a substantial jump in policing costs" for B.C.

Ottawa, however, has backed down from its proposal to withdraw RCMP policing all communities over 5,000.

This, together with a revised cost-sharing formula, calling for adjustment of the present 40-60 split in favor of the provinces to 50-50 over 10 years, has virtually ruled out the need for B.C. to contemplate its own provincial force, Mr. Bonner said.

The attorney-general said the cost to B.C., if the new formula was implemented, will be calculated using population projections and policing ratios. The findings of this study will determine whether this province agrees to the Ottawa proposal.

"There is no doubt," Mr. Bonner said, "that there will be a substantial increase in police costs over the next 10 years."

In Regina, Saskatchewan Attorney-General Heald said his province has rejected the new cost-sharing formula.

He said it would result in Saskatchewan paying $2,223,000 in 10 years instead of the present $1,390,000.

"This is not acceptable at all," he said. "We are going to Ottawa for a scheduled meeting after the new year and ask to be placed back on the old arrangement."

Defence Tests To Include B.C.

OTTAWA (CP)—North American Air Defence Command and the U.S. Strategic Air Command will conduct a training exercise over Western Canada and the U.S. and Alaska early Friday.

In Canada, the exercise, one in a series of such tests, will be held over parts of British Columbia, Alberta and the Northwest Territories.

A kitchen fire in a Saanich home Monday morning was doused by firemen after a quick-thinking housewife sealed it off by closing two doors.

Mrs. Henry P. Smith, 3856 Cadboro Bay Road, and seven children were in the frame home when the blaze broke out at about 9 a.m. There were no injuries.

No estimate of damage has been made but the loss is covered by insurance, said Mrs. Smith. Damage was confined to the kitchen in the blaze that evidently began in a garbage box.

Retiring Officer Charged

OTTAWA (CP) — Brig. John Baxter Allan, 50, retiring vice-quartermaster-general of the Canadian army, was arraigned in magistrate's court here Monday on charges of conspiracy and acceptance of a bribe of more than $8,000.

He was remanded to Dec. 21 for plea. He is free on $4,000 cash bail.

FORCED TO RETIRE

The two charges, involving alleged payment of hotel bills and accepting company shares, were prepared by the RCMP. The investigation into the case began early this year and Brig. Allan was compulsorily retired Aug. 6, three years and 11 months before normal retirement age.

The charges say that Brig. Allan did "accept an advantage for himself to a value in excess of $8,000 arising from payment of hotel bills and transfer of preferred and common shares of Levy Industries Limited."

Persons named in the charge from whom Brig. Allan is alleged to have accepted the bribe are: Morris Pet Levy.

Controversial Doctor To Remain

OMENEE, Ont. (CP) — Dr. Jules Sobrian, who attracted nation-wide attention last spring when he condemned this village's sewers and drinking water as unsafe, says he will remain here as doctor and medical officer of health.

Dr. Sobrian, 29-year-old West Indian, who came to this community, 12 miles west of Peterborough, 18 months ago announced his decision to stay at a victory celebration for Reeve-elect Cecil Reeds.

The election saw the end of a three-year regime headed by Reeve George Stephenson, which last summer had moved to expropriate a one-acre property said by the school board to Dr. Sobrian.

Chinese Suggestion

Soviets Endorse Test Ban Call

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The Soviet Union Monday endorsed China's call for a world conference of heads of state to discuss banning of nuclear weapons. Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko told the General Assembly his government was prepared to take part in disarmament discussions "at any level, including the highest one."

He said the Chinese summit proposal "deserves positive consideration."

As Gromyko spoke, the Soviet delegation released an 11-point memorandum to the assembly on measures for disarmament, including a suggestion that all the "militarily powerful nations" agree to reduce their military budgets "by 10 to 15 per cent or to any other agreed extent."

Western diplomats said the Soviet proposals were largely a restatement of previous positions.

At one point during Mr. Gromyko's speech U.S. chief delegate Adlai Stevenson had trouble trying to hide a big yawn.

External Affairs Minister Paul Martin, who will make Canada's policy statement today, said he was "disappointed" with Gromyko's speech. He said he had hoped Gromyko would set a tone of "accommodation and settlement." Instead, he had given "the same propaganda line."

Double Flip All in Trip On Freeway

LONG BEACH, Cal. (UPI) — Police are looking for a nonchalant motorist who flipped his 1957 Chevrolet end-over-end twice on the Long Beach Freeway.

Witnesses told police the car landed on its wheels and the apparently unharmed driver just drove off, minus his windshield and window glass.

Tory Pressure:

CUT SHORT FLAG TALK

OTTAWA (CP) — The parliamentary wing of the Progressive Conservative party is under strong pressure from the party's national executive to wind up the flag debate in the Commons, reliable sources said Monday.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker was reported to have been informed by president Dalton Camp that the party executive, in 2-to-1 in favor of MPs discontinuing their fight against the single maple leaf flag design proposed by a Commons committee.

Debate on the recommendation went into its sixth day Monday. The previous flag debate on the government-recommended design of three red maple leaves lasted 22 days before the committee was handed the task of finding a design.

END DEBATE

One source said that when the party executive met during the weekend reports from the provinces heavily favored ending the flag debate, now being carried on almost exclusively by Conservative speakers.

However, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker made a plea for support for continuing the debate.

One source said that at a subsequent session Mr. Camp was instructed to advise Mr. Diefenbaker the executive was still overwhelmingly in favor of ending it.

MPs AGREE

A number of the party's MPs have gone on record publicly along the same line, including all but one of the Quebec MPs. The latest move in this direction came Monday in a statement by Gerald Baldwin, MP for Peace River.

Mr. Baldwin called for a decision on the flag but urged that after the decision the government delay implementing it until the Canadian constitution has been brought fully within the control of the Canadian Parliament and legislatures.

SPEAKERS DWINDLING

Meanwhile, Conservative sources indicated the party's list of flag speakers is dwindling rapidly.

House Leader Gordon Churchill (Winnipeg South Centre) said the debate would continue Monday but after that "the situation is fluid."

Chatterton Prepared To Support Closure

Trouble Piles High

Snow piled on snow in New England states during weekend as series of winter storms wind-whipped falling snow into drifts that almost buried buildings, as in Eastport, Maine. Frigid weather, felt throughout United States except for extreme south and Pacific Coast, left thousands of homes without electric power for heating and cooking, and caused many deaths. — (AP)

Was Bennett Snubbed By Senators?

By DON HANRIGHT

OTTAWA (CP) — Was Premier Bennett snubbed by the Senate banking and commerce committee?

"The Senate is on a holiday," the premier said sarcastically Monday. He was here for a federal-provincial conference of finance ministers.

Mr. Bennett had hoped, while in Ottawa, to appear before the senators to answer objections to his government investing in the proposed Bank of British Columbia.

PUBLIC POLICY

A motion to kill the bill for incorporation of the proposed new chartered bank now is before the committee.

The Senate itself now stands adjourned to next Monday, Dec. 14. The banking and commerce committee has the authority, however, to sit when the upper chamber itself is in recess.

Sources said Monday that the senators knew last Wednesday, when they decided to adjourn the committee hearing to Dec. 14, that Mr. Bennett would be in Ottawa Monday and today. Moreover, no effort was made to call a committee meeting this week to hear the premier.

The adjournment was intended to give Mr. Bennett and Attorney-General Robert Bonner an opportunity to make further representations. Mr. Bennett indicated he will not return to Ottawa next Monday but that Mr. Bonner likely will come.

UNION JACK

He suggested a design similar to one of the last flags rejected by the Commons committee—a maple leaf in the centre with a Union Jack in one corner and a fleur-de-lis in the other.

Chatterton said he was "strongly opposed in principle" to a plebiscite, but because of the strongly partisan circumstances under which the flag debate was taking place, he would ask the nation to choose "the lesser evil."

24TH DAY

He was speaking as the flag debate dragged into its 24th day. The Commons was considering an amendment to the flag committee report recommending adoption of a single red maple leaf flag. To amendment would send the issue to the country in a national plebiscite.

Joseph Greene (L.-Rimouski South) interrupted a Conservative speaker and charged the Tories' tactics were a "prostitution of Parliament."

The Reids

Runs Third

Charlotte Loses In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Controller Don Reid, a furniture dealer, shattered Charlotte Whitton's unbeaten mayoralty record Monday in one of the most stunning upsets in the history of Ottawa civic elections.

Miss Whitton ran a surprising third in the five-way race. Miss Whitton went to Mr. Reid's campaign headquarters to concede and congratulate the winner.

"Don, I'm handing you over a city that's in A-1 shape," she said.

In Toronto, Mayor Philip Givens was returned to office Monday night, thrusting back the comeback attempt of once-unbeatable Allan Lamport.

Jagan Starts Slowly

GEORGETOWN (AP) — Marxist Premier Cheddi Jagan's Progressive People's party fell behind Monday night as early returns came in from Monday's British Guiana National Assembly elections but was expected to make a strong showing in districts coming in later.

Final results are expected sometime today.

British army helicopters circled over the more sensitive trouble areas in Georgetown. About 1,300 British soldiers and 2,400 police and volunteers took stations along the 2,000-square-mile coastal area of the British colony to maintain order.

Dedicated RFLA Inspector Oscar Vonnberg lay in muddy ditch for 1½ hours Monday night before rescuing cat which had its paw caught in muskrat trap. Here he is shown releasing angry animal, whose paw was apparently not permanently injured. Rescue took no long because cat dragged trap about 30 feet inside 12-inch drain tile beside Jennifer Road and trap had to be nudged with long, hooked wire. — (W. A. Boucher)

Phantoms Haunt Hellyer

OTTAWA (UPI) — Defence Minister Hellyer's new defence policy and possibly his political future, has been placed in jeopardy by intense lobbying by aircraft manufacturers, manufacturers of the highly-sophisticated F-4 "Phantom" fighter.

As a result of the campaign the cabinet now has a yes or no proposition before it whether to award the new multi-million dollar aircraft contract to MacDonnell Aircraft Corporation, manufacturers of the highly-sophisticated F-4 "Phantom" fighter.

Selection of this aircraft, sources said, would be a negation of Hellyer's thinking and his declared policy.

The aircraft manufacturers, however, feel that much more money would accrue from a Phantom program due to the

North End of Island

Firms Building
'Model Towns'

Tremendous development has begun in what will become model towns on the north end of Vancouver Island, Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell said Monday.

He was commenting on the application by MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. for the right to purchase 57 acres of crown land at Kelsey Bay for a residential subdivision.

In a similar but more advanced development at Port Hardy NHA housing will shortly be available for the first time in the area, Mr. Campbell said.

LONG OVERDUE

The residential lots are being connected to the recently established Port Hardy improvement district for both sewers and water.

"There are tremendous developments taking place up there," said Mr. Campbell. "This is exactly what should happen in these sustained-yield communities for a number of years. The improvement is long overdue."

'SHACK TOWNS'

Mr. Campbell, while still a backbencher raised a storm in the legislature last session by attacking the "shack towns" serving company holdings on the north of the island.

He said Monday companies are working closely with the municipal affairs department in planning entirely new "model towns" which will be open to all comers.

$372 Given
To SPCA

DUNCAN — "We are very pleased," a spokesman for the Cowichan SPCA branch said Monday following a record total of $372 in donations to the annual SPCA tag day Saturday. The money is earmarked for SPCA activities throughout the year.

Courtenay Cars Try Today

72 Per Cent in Albernis
Flunk Roadworthy Test

Special to the Colonist

The voluntary mobile testing unit of the B.C. motor vehicles branch, which opens shop in Courtenay today, flunked 72.5 per cent of the cars tested in five days at Port Alberni last week.

The unit will go to Duncan after finishing its stay in Courtenay.

An RCMP spokesman in Port Alberni said Monday 173 of the 637 vehicles were approved while 462 failed to meet various requirements and were issued slips stating the repairs needed to make them roadworthy.

DEFECTS CORRECTED

He said 282 of the 462 rejected cars returned by the weekend with slips showing defects had been corrected. These cars were given approval stickers.

Others who return similar slips from their garages to motor vehicles examiner Peter Craig in the Alberni courthouse within 30 days also will receive stickers.

The spokesman said the fact so many returned with evidence of correction of defects "is a good indication the objective is being realized."

CONTINUAL LINEUP

There was a continual lineup of cars waiting to go through the tests each day the unit was in the Albernis. The project was sponsored by the vehicles branch, RCMP and Alberni Valley Safety Council.

In Courtenay, testing will be from today through Saturday on the Super-Valu parking lot. Acting mayor George Hobson will welcome the unit this morning.

Safety council president R. T. Carrington said Monday the unit will be open from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. today and from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. during the other days.

Helpers will include representatives of Rotary, Kiwanis, the Upper Island Sports Car Club, district teachers, RCAF Station Comox and various women's organizations.

In Duncan, the unit will locate on the Safeway parking lot from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Dec. 15 through 19. Duncan Jaycees are the district sponsors.

Island Centres Given
$300,000 in Loans

OTTAWA (CP)—Three federal loans totalling more than $300,000 for works projects in three Vancouver Island municipalities were announced Monday.

Port Hardy improvement district will get $142,000 for its first waterworks and sewage system.

The others were $116,666 to Port Alberni for recreational facilities, and $44,000 to Comox for sewers.

Long Search Ends

Nanaimo Chooses
Works Yard Site

NANAIMO—The years-long search for a new city works yard site has ended, Mayor Pete Maffeo told city council Monday night.

In a busy meeting, council also learned a proposal has been made for a new southern highway approach to Nanaimo, agreed a controversial business sign can be installed and decided to talk to the RCMP about more men in the city.

The mayor said Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell, during a meeting with Nanaimo officials in Victoria Monday, approved council's application for a zoning change near the exhibition grounds to allow development of a new works yard.

REZONE PROPERTY

The property, which would be rezoned to commercial, ranges from the E & N tracks to Vancouver Island Exhibition property, and from Madill's at Bowen and the Island Highway to the end of McCulloch Road.

The present yard at Campbell and Pridoux is in a residential area. The mayor lives a block from it.

SOUTHERN APPROACH

Mayor Maffeo said the Nanaimo officials also talked to Highways Minister Gagliardi about a possible southern approach through the Front Street Extension and CPR property to Irwin Street.

Irwin would be redeveloped to the Highway at Chase River. Mr. Gagliardi and his visitors also discussed traffic congestion at the Pearson bridge. Terminal and St. George, and Terminal and Nicol.

SECOND STOREY

Council learned sketch plans for an expansion of courtroom facilities include a second storey on the police station. They have been shown to RCMP and Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts and, at the suggestion of Ald. Ted Barsby, will also be shown to the Nanaimo County Bar Association.

The lawyers pointed out in a letter to council there is no private phone for counsel, no room for probation officers and no room to interview witnesses. The magistrate's and prosecutor's chambers are adjacent.

INCREASE FORCE

Ald. Barsby also suggested a meeting with RCMP officials to discuss the force's suggestion that the city detachment be increased to 20 men from 17, effective in April.

The Pacific 66 sign at Terminal and Rosehill, once rejected by the city because it rotates, won approval because there is "an element of doubt" that it is an illegal flashing sign.

Council also learned Nanaimo-Vancouver flights are planned by Nanaimo Air Lines and Powell River Airways, if approval can be obtained.

This disclosure was made as council agreed to a request from Pacific Coastal Airlines that the city write a letter supporting this firm's forthcoming service from Cassidy to Vancouver airport.

Alberni Valley

Study Slated
On Pollution

PORT ALBERNI—A study to determine whether there is a connection between respiratory diseases and air pollution from pulp mills will be started here early next year, says Health Minister Martin.

He said the Alberni Valley appears to have a disproportionately high rate of respiratory ailments.

UBC TEAM

The survey will be conducted by a research team from the University of British Columbia department of preventive medicine, aided by public health workers and financed by a national health grant.

They will compare the respiratory conditions of Alberni Valley children with children in a mainland community which is free of pulp mills, he said.

LITTLE EVIDENCE

"There is very little, if any, evidence from studies done elsewhere that would serve to link upper respiratory infection with the discharge from pulp mills," he said, "and we are not too hopeful of finding that the apparent high rate of respiratory infection in the Alberni is due to chemicals being discharged into the air."

Father,
Son to Court

PORT ALBERNI — Liquor brought a father and son to magistrate's court Monday morning.

The father, Matthew John Williams, was fined $200 when he pleaded guilty to a charge of being an interdict in possession and was told that, in default of immediate payment he would go to jail for two months. The son, John Williams, was jailed for 30 days on a charge of intoxication.

Another interdict, Gustav Theodore Delorme, was fined $30 on a charge of possession of liquor.

Starting Shortly

Lighting Changes
To Brighten Duncan

DUNCAN — The controversial improvement of the highway through Duncan will start shortly and will include 14 davit-type light standards, the provincial highways department informed city council Monday night.

Some merchants have protested that the program of curbs, gutters and raised islands will block access to a number of stores. A meeting with those merchants was announced earlier after the department said it was willing to seek a compromise.

The department said Monday it will pay for installation of the lights and for traffic control lights and said five existing light fixtures can be removed. But the department asked the city to pay 50 per cent of the power and maintenance bill, which will be $2.20 per light per month.

Council instructed city clerk Gordon Berry to sign a contract with the department for improved lighting at the intersection of the highway and Trunk Road.

Alderman B. W. W. Cocks and James Saunders were appointed to investigate a request from King's Daughters' Hospital for an additional light on the Cairnmore Street side of the hospital.

A letter from the hospital said the cars of night workers had been broken into on several occasions. Ald. Saunders said the real answer would be proper parking facilities for night personnel.

Council decided to ask the city advisory planning commission for comment on a request from Hayes-Palmer Motors to use a small office building on the south side of Trunk Road near another used car lot.

Ayrshire Club
Elects Officers

DUNCAN—The Vancouver Island Ayrshire Club elected John Balme of Cobble Hill as its president during the 19th annual meeting of the club here at the weekend.

Centennial Projects

Russell Heads
Joint Committee

PORT ALBERNI — William Russell, chairman of the Port Alberni centennial committee, has been chosen to head a joint committee set up here to plan for Alberni Valley projects and celebrations for Canada's 1967 centenary.

He was chosen at a meeting attended by representatives of the Twin Cities, the Beaver Creek and Cherry Creek improvement districts and the Sprout Lake Ratepayers' Association.

It was agreed that the various areas will have representation on the basis of two for the first 1,000 population and one for each 1,500 or major part of 1,500 thereafter.

INTEREST SHOWN

To serve with Mr. Russell on the executive are W. F. Marshall, first vice-chairman; Mrs. N. McLeod, secretary; Ed Chenard, treasurer, and Mrs. J. H. Pratt, corresponding treasurer.

Beaver Creek and Sprout Lake areas have indicated they will participate in the projects of the joint committee but Cherry Creek has not yet been committed. Representatives, however, have shown interest in joint celebrations.

At a meeting of the Port Alberni committee before the joint meeting it was reported only 21 replies had been received from the many organizations which had been invited to submit suggestions for a permanent centennial project.

Breaking Probation
Costs Prison Term

NANAIMO — A 33-year-old man given a two-year suspended sentence in magistrate's court in August for theft was sentenced Monday to nine months in jail after pleading guilty to breaking the terms of his probation.

Henry A. Lewis, 1823 Stewart Avenue, admitted being in possession of several bottles of beer and a bottle of rum Saturday night. One of the terms of his probation set down by Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts in August was that he would not drink or have liquor in his possession.

Police said they found Lewis is passed out in the bedroom of a Townsite Road home Saturday night while investigating a complaint. They said it took "vigorous shaking" to wake Lewis up.

He was convicted of theft in August after admitting he took part in the shooting and butchering of a cow pastured on a Cedar farm July 18.

Police said James "let off steam" by roaring the engine of his car and Stapleford honked his car horn for some distance downtown to "greet some friends" he had not seen for a long time.

Roger Houston of Comox was fined $150 after conviction on a charge of common assault at the Labor Day regatta at Maple Bay.

Terrence D. Lindstrom of Duncan was fined $150 and given a six-month licence suspension after he pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

A fine of $100 was assessed against Francis Louis of Duncan for his third conviction this year on a charge of possession of liquor while an interdict.

Hugh Brown of Honeymoon Bay was fined a total of $60 on charges of careless driving and driving without insurance while under 21.

Fines for breaking the anti-noise bylaw were $30 for Richard G. James and $27 for S. A. Stapleford. Both are Duncan residents.

Duncan Court

'Belligerent' Drinkers
Earn Big Penalties

DUNCAN — Two people described by police as "belligerent" at the time of arrest were fined in magistrate's court Monday.

Court was told Anne Willis Branch of Maple Bay was "very belligerent" when checked in a car which had landed in a ditch on Maple Bay Road.

She pleaded guilty to a charge of being in care and control of a car while impaired. Her sentence was a $200 fine and a one-year driving licence suspension.

CAR IN DITCH

Testimony was that Mrs. Branch and a male passenger were found passed out in a car which was in a ditch. The car contained an empty rum bottle and a nearly-empty whisky bottle, as well as several bottles of beer.

Magistrate D. K. McAdam granted Mrs. Branch 48 hours to raise the $200 fine before serving the alternative of 10 days in jail.

NOISY CROWD

In another case, police testified Robert Ernest McLellan of Youbou was "extremely belligerent" when four officers went to Silver Park to control a noisy crowd of 30 youths Saturday.

McLellan, who drank beer in front of one officer, was fined $100 for consuming liquor in public.

Terrence D. Lindstrom of Duncan was fined $150 and given a six-month licence suspension after he pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

A fine of $100 was assessed against Francis Louis of Duncan for his third conviction this

Jury Blames Victim For Deaths

COURTENAY — Excessive speed on the part of one of the victims caused a car-truck collision which killed two men near Union Bay Nov. 26, a coroner's jury ruled Monday night.

The jury added alcohol they drank was a contributing factor in the deaths of Laurie George Peach, 23, of Windsor Forks, N.S., and William Albert McKla, 21, of Ottawa, employees of Western Mines Ltd. at Campbell River.

They were in the car, which was owned and driven by Peach. Truck driver William George Vans, who was moving to Marville and Fanny Bay, was not injured and his two passengers were slightly hurt.

A letter is going from council to the municipal affairs department concerning the assessment of several parcels of land covering the area from French Creek to the second crossing at Boorman Road.

Ottawa Lifts Threat Of RCMP Cutoff

The federal government has lifted the threat of an abrupt termination of RCMP services to the provinces next May by announcing the present contract will run until March 31, 1966.

Attorney-General Bonner said Monday further talks with Justice Minister Favreau, scheduled to be held this week in Ottawa, have been postponed until the middle of January to permit the provinces to study the new offer.

"SUBSTANTIAL JUMP" — It represents a moderation of the federal government's previous stand, he said, but would mean even on the present cost-sharing basis "a substantial jump in policing costs" for B.C.

Ottawa, however, has backed down from its proposal to withdraw RCMP policing all communities over 5,000.

This, together with a revised cost-sharing formula, calling for adjustment of the present 40-60 split in favor of the provinces to 50-50 over 10 years, has virtually ruled out the need for B.C. to contemplate its own provincial force, Mr. Bonner said.

The attorney-general said the cost to B.C. if the new formula was implemented, will be calculated using population projections and policing ratios. The findings of this study will determine whether this province agrees to the Ottawa proposal.

"There is no doubt," Mr. Bonner said, "that there will be a substantial increase in police costs over the next 10 years."

In Regina, Saskatchewan, Attorney-General Heald said his province has rejected the new cost-sharing formula.

He said it would result in Saskatchewan paying $2,233,000 in 10 years instead of the present $1,390,000.

"This is not acceptable at all," he said. "We are going to Ottawa for a scheduled meeting after the new year and ask to be placed back on the old arrangement."

Retiring Officer Charged

OTTAWA (CP) — Brig. John Baxter Allan, 50, retiring vice quartermaster-general of the Canadian army, was arraigned in Vancouver's court here Monday on charges of conspiracy and acceptance of a bribe of more than $8,000.

He was remanded to Dec. 21 for plea. He is free on $4,000 cash bail.

FORCED TO RETIRE

The two charges, involving alleged payment of hotel bills and accepting company shares, were prepared by the RCMP. The investigation into the case began early this year and Brig. Allan was compulsorily retired Aug. 6, three years and 11 months before normal retirement age.

The charges say that Brig. Allan did "accept an advantage for himself to the value in excess of $8,000 arising from payment of hotel bills and transfer of preferred and common shares of Levy Industries Limited."

Persons named in the charge from whom Brig. Allan is alleged to have accepted the bribe are: Morris Pet Levy.

Controversial Doctor To Remain

OMEMEE, Ont. (CP) — Dr. Jules Sobrian, who attracted nationwide attention last spring when he condemned this village's sewers and drinking water as unsafe, says he will remain here as doctor and medical officer of health.

Dr. Sobrian, 29-year-old West Indian, who came to this community, 12 miles west of Peterborough, 18 months ago announced his decision to stay at a victory celebration for Reeve-elect Cecil Reeds.

The election saw the end of a three-year regime headed by Reeve George Stephenson, which last summer had moved to expropriate a one-acre property sold by the school board to Dr. Sobrian.

Chinese Suggestion

REDS WANT TEST BAN

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The Soviet Union Monday endorsed China's call for a world conference of heads of state to discuss banning of nuclear weapons.

Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko told the General Assembly his government was prepared to take part in disarmament discussions "at any level, including the highest one."

He said the Chinese summit proposal "deserves positive consideration."

As Gromyko spoke, the Soviet delegation released an 11-point memorandum to the assembly on measures for disarmament, including a suggestion that all the "militarily powerful nations" agree to reduce their military budgets "by 10 to 15 per cent or to any other agreed extent."

RESTATEMENT

Western diplomats said the Soviet proposals were largely a restatement of previous positions.

At one point during Mr. Gromyko's speech U.S. chief delegate Adlai Stevenson had trouble trying to hide a big yawn.

External Affairs Minister Paul Martin, who will make Canada's policy statement today, said he was "disappointed" with Gromyko's speech.

He said he had hoped Gromyko would set a tone of "accommodation and settlement." Instead, he had given "the same propaganda line."

Flag Talk May End

OTTAWA (CP)—The parliamentary wing of the Progressive Conservative party is under strong pressure from the party's national executive to wind up the flag debate in the Commons, reliable sources said Monday.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker was reported to have been informed by president Dalton Camp that the party executive is 2-1 in favor of MPs discontinuing their fight against the single maple leaf flag design proposed by a Commons committee.

Debate on the recommendation went into its sixth day Monday. The previous flag debate on the government-recommended design of three red maple leaves lasted 22 days before the committee was handed the task of finding a design.

END DEBATE

One source said that when the party executive met during the weekend reports from the provinces heavily favored ending the flag debate, now being carried on almost exclusively by Conservative speakers.

However, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker made a plea for support for continuing the debate.

One source said that at a subsequent session Mr. Camp was instructed to advise Mr. Diefenbaker the executive was still overwhelmingly in favor of ending it.

MPs AGREE

A number of the party's MPs have gone on record publicly along the same line, including all but one of the Quebec MPs. The latest move in this direction came Monday in a statement by Gerald Baldwin, MP for Peace River.

Mr. Baldwin called for a decision on the flag but urged that after the decision the government delay implementing it until the Canadian constitution has been brought fully within the control of the Canadian Parliament and legislatures.

SPEAKERS DWINDLING

Meanwhile, Conservative sources indicated the party's list of flag speakers is dwindling rapidly.

House Leader Gordon Churchill (Winnipeg South Centre) said the debate would continue Monday but after that "the situation is fluid."

Chatterton Prepared To Support Closure

PUBLIC POLICY

A motion to kill the bill for incorporation of the proposed new chartered bank now is before the committee.

The Senate itself now stands adjourned to next Monday, Dec. 14. The banking and commerce committee has the authority, however, to sit when the upper chamber itself is in recess.

Sources said Monday that the senators knew last Wednesday, when they decided to adjourn the committee hearing to Dec. 14, that Mr. Bennett would be in Ottawa Monday and today. Moreover, no effort was made to call a committee meeting this week to hear the premier.

The adjournment was intended to give Mr. Bennett and Attorney-General Robert Bonner an opportunity to make further representations.

Mr. Bennett indicated he will not return to Ottawa next Monday but that Mr. Bonner likely will come.

Mr. Bennett had hoped, while in Ottawa, to appear before the senators to answer objections to his government investing in the proposed Bank of British Columbia.

He suggested a design similar to one of the last flags rejected by the Commons committee—a maple leaf in the center with a Union Jack in one corner and a fleur-de-lis in the other.

Chatterton said he was

"strongly opposed in principle" to a plebiscite, but because of the strongly partisan circumstances under which the flag debate was taking place, he would ask the nation to choose "the lesser evil."

28TH DAY

He was speaking as the flag debate dragged into its 28th day. The Commons was considering an amendment to the flag committee report recommending adoption of a single red maple leaf flag. The amendment would send the issue to the country in a national plebiscite.

Joseph Greene (L-Renfrew South) interrupted a Conservative speaker and charged the Tories' tactics were a "prostitution of Parliament."

Trouble Piles High

Snow piled on snow in New England states during weekend as series of winter storms wind-whipped falling snow into drifts that almost buried buildings, as in Eastport, Maine. Frigid weather, felt throughout United States except for extreme south and Pacific Coast, left thousands of homes without electric power for heating and cooking, and caused many deaths.—(AP)

Was Bennett Snubbed By Senators?

By DON HANRIGHT

OTTAWA (CP)—Was Premier Bennett snubbed by the Senate banking and commerce committee?

"The Senate is on a holiday," the premier said sarcastically Monday. He was here for a federal-provincial conference of finance ministers.

Mr. Bennett had hoped, while in Ottawa, to appear before the senators to answer objections to his government investing in the proposed Bank of British Columbia.

He suggested a design similar to one of the last flags rejected by the Commons committee—a maple leaf in the center with a Union Jack in one corner and a fleur-de-lis in the other.

State Legislator Unmasked As Convict, Accused Swindler

DETROIT (UPI) — Federal agents Monday arrested State Rep. Daniel West (D-Detroit), unmasked over the weekend as an ex-convict, on charges he was involved in a federal tax swindle.

West was taken into custody by federal agents immediately following an appearance in Recorder's Court on charges of aiding and abetting the false registration of voters in the September primary.

STOLE BACKGROUND

West, identified as an ex-convict who served time for burglary, forgery and housebreaking, had gained respectability by stealing the background of a brilliant New York lawyer, now dead.

The Internal Revenue Service said it had West under investigation for some time.

MASQUERADE

The astonishing masquerade of West, 54, who has already served one term in the legislature and was re-elected to a second term last month, was disclosed over the weekend following investigations by the FBI and Detroit police. West's background came under suspicion when his defeated primary opponent found West listing two different places of birth.

The latest disclosure in the case is that West had a lucrative business sideline consisting of making out income tax re-

Runs Third

Charlotte Loses In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Controller Don Reid, a furniture dealer, shattered Charlotte Whitton's unbeaten mayoralty record Monday in one of the most stunning upsets in the history of Ottawa civic elections.

Miss Whitton ran a surprising third in the five-way race.

Miss Whitton went to Mr. Reid's campaign headquarters to concede and congratulate the winner.

"Don, I'm handing you over a city that's in A-1 shape," she said.

In Toronto, Mayor Philip Givens was returned to office Monday night, thrusting back the comeback attempt of once-unbeatable Allan Lamport.

Jagan Starts Slowly

GEORGETOWN (AP)—Marxist Premier Cheddi Jagan's Progressive People's party fell behind Monday night as early returns came in from Monday's British Guiana National Assembly elections but was expected to make a strong showing in districts coming in later.

Final results are expected sometime today.

British army helicopters circled over the more sensitive trouble areas in Georgetown. About 1,500 British soldiers and 2,400 police and volunteers took stations along the 2,000-square-mile coastal area of the British colony to maintain order.
